RECOGNITION OF REVOLUTIONISTS.

Cuba Should be Assisted in All Lawful Ways.

THE SENATE RESOLUTIONS.

Belligerents' Rights Should at Once be Conceded—Senator Allen Asks for Prompt Action in This Matter

Washington, Dec. 4.—The Senate spent an hour and a half in session to-day, the proceedings winding up with a speech by Mr. Allen, the Populist Senator from Nebraska, in favor of recognizing the Cuban revolutionists and aiding them, "in all lawful ways" to secure the independence of the island and to establish a republic there. No action was taken on his resolution offered on Tuesday, to carry out his views; and it went on the calendar, where it will remain unless taken up by vote of the Senate. Mr. Call (Dem.) of Florida, who was to speak in support of a somewhat similar resolution offered by him on Tuesday, postponed his speech till to-morrow. So did Mr. Cullom (Rep.) of Illinois. Petitions for the recognition of the independence of Cuba were presented from the States of Ohio and Florida and were referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. Resolutions were offered by Mr. Hoar (Rep.) of Massachusetts, pledging the support of the Senate to the President of the United States, "in the most vigorous action he may deem fit to take for the protection and security of the American citizens in Turkey and to obtain redress for injuries committed upon them," and calling on the President for all information received by him or the State Department on that subject, and as to whether American consuls in Turkey have been interfered with in the performance of their duties. The first of these resolutions was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations; the other was agreed to.

The question of the disputed Senatorship from Delaware was brought up in the Senate to-day in the shape of a formal claim (in writing) of Mr. Henry A. Dupont, to be admitted as a Senator under an election by the Legislature of Delaware on the 28th of May, 1895. The paper was presented by Senator Mitchell (Rep.) of Oregon, with evidence in support of the claim and the matter was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Election—Mr. Dupont being in the meantime admitted to the privileges of the floor.

The resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Allen (Pop.) of Nebraska, for the recognition of the Cuban revolutionists, was taken up and Mr. Allen addressed the Senate in support of it. He spoke of the importance of the island both in strategic and a commercial point of view, and declared his belief in the propriety of promptly recognizing the revolutionists of Cuba and assisting them in all lawful ways to secure their independence and to establish a republic. He would not have the United States government plunge headlong into a needless quarrel with the Spanish government, but he believed it to be the true policy and doctrine of this government that, wherever a people showed themselves desirous of establishing a republican form of government upon adjacent territory, they should receive American encouragement and support. He believed that the time was speedily coming when not only the people of Cuba would be free, but when the people of all the adjacent islands would have established a republican form of government or would have become integral parts of the United States. He did not favor greed for territory or the glories of conquest, but he did believe that the sober, candid, thinking, patriotic people of the United States fully realized the necessity of promptly taking steps in that direction, to secure their country against foreign invasion and to extend the interests of their commerce. He also believed in the Monroe doctrine, and thought that the people were dissatisfied with the foreign policy pursued for the last 25 years. He thought that it had been dilatory, if not absolutely trivial, and contemptable. It had been a hiss and a by-word among the people of the United States. In this connection Mr. Allen referred to the case of Mrs. Maybrick charging that she had not been given a fair trial in England; and to that of ex-Consul Waller "languishing in a French prison for the alleged crime of treason to a government to which he owed no allegiance." He did not believe in "a brilliant foreign policy," but in a sensible and efficient one, that would command the respect of the entire civilized world, and would draw to its support citizens regardless of political alignment.

No action was taken on the resolution, which thereupon went to the calendar, and, as Mr. Call (Dem.) of Florida, who was to speak on the same subject, preferred to postpone his speech until to-morrow, the Senate proceeded to executive business and at 1:30 adjourned until to-morrow.

EQUAL TO HETTY GREEN.

Death of an Eccentric and Wealthy Pittsburg Lady.

Pittsburg, Dec. 4.—A cablegram received in Pittsburg announces the death in Edinburgh, Scotland, of Mrs. Anna R. Aspinwall, widow of George R. Aspinwall of this locality. Mrs. Aspinwall leaves behind her a record of a life as unique in every respect as that of Hettie Green of New York, and it is thought that, for eccentricity, it would even excel that of the noted New York lady. Mrs. Aspinwall's strict seclusion shut out all intercourse with the public so that she was not known to a great many, even by reputation. The act that recently brought her into unsought prominence in Pittsburg was her donation of a tract of valuable real estate to the West Pennsylvania hospital. To escape being besieged by callers, Mrs. Aspinwall sailed in June last for Europe. On this trip, a fall caused by a lurch of the ship inflicted injuries that resulted in her death last Monday. Mrs. Aspinwall's estate is worth more than half a million in bank accounts and investments, while her land possessions are of value exceeding $3,000,000. Her maiden name was Annie Coleman, a member of the wealthy Coleman connection in the East, prominent in mining interests. She married Capt. George R. Aspinwall, of the family who controlled the Aspinwall line of ocean steamers.

GLADSTONE TO DEPEW.

Failing Strength Prevents Acceptance of Chicago's Invitation.

New York, Dec. 4.—The Press club of Chicago has had an address from some speaker of distinction in the Auditorium every year for several years. They invited Mr. Gladstone for 1896, and the Mayor of Chicago suplemented the request with a cordial invitation to Mr. Gladstone and his family. Their letters were sent to Mr. Depew to be forwarded with a personal letter from him. The following is Mr. Gladstone's answer:

"Hawarden Castle, Chester, Nov. 5, 1895.—Dear Mr. Depew: I have had the honor to receive your letter of the 20th ultimo, which forwarded to me the invitation of the Press club, accompanied and countenanced by the gracious address of the Mayor of the great city of Chicago.

"I cannot too strongly express my sense of the honor thus done me and I wish to add that in my opinion no cause more sacred and none more urgent than that of the Armenians has ever been brought before the citizens of our humane and enlightened country.

"It is for the moment enveloped, so far as the public is concerned, in uncertainty, but yet there are indications that the handwriting on the wall which warned one ancient despot of his coming doom, has again been traced visibly enough to betoken some approaching crash of a system of government far more impious and iniquitous.

"With these feelings, I still must not blind myself to the facts of my situation. After my long public life I can attempt no public action without considering much besides the truth and even the importance of what I might have to say and I am far from being convinced that my undertaking a public progress (for such it would be) at the present time would be beneficial to the Armenian cause. But all reasoning on such a question is cut short by an undesirable physical unfitness. The blessing of good health is still vouchsafed to me, but diminished strength, imperfect vision and growing deafness incapacitate me for public efforts which more weighty considerations might lead me to undertake, and confine my intercourse to others to what is purely private and of a very restricted character.

"I send this reply with much regret but with too full an assurance of its necessity.

"In conclusion, let me hope that the influence of your great, and in such a matter necessarily impartial country, will be powerfully used in the cause of right.

"I remain with much respect, dear Mr. Depew, Very faithfully yours,

"W. E. GLADSTONE.

"Hon. Chauncey M. Depew."

SUGAR TRUST SUED.

Counsel for the Company Claims It Is Not a Monopoly.

New York, Dec. 4.—Papers in a suit to restrain the American Sugar Refining Co. from doing business in this State, were served on John E. Searles, treasurer of the company, to-day.

John E. Parsons, counsel for the American Sugar Refining Co. (Sugar Trust), says of the proceedings to stop the company from doing business in New York State: "Anyone can make an application to the Attorney General. Anyone can serve papers upon such an application. The practical consideration is whether the facts alleged are true and whether it is true they can make out a case. I have glanced over the papers. They proceed upon the idea that the American Sugar Refining Co. is a combination of the large number of previously existing corporations and individual sugar refineries; that this combination constitutes a monopoly and is in violation of law. There are further allegations, all for the purpose of establishing that the company is a monopoly.

"The fact is that the American Sugar Refining Co. is the only corporation now existing. All preceding corporations have been dissolved and are out of existence. The organization of the company followed the decision of the Court of Appeals in the case of the North River company. It is in direct conformity with what I understand to have been established in the case and to have been held in many other cases. Not only is there no law which prevents a corporation from acquiring property which previously belonged to other individuals and companies, but the statutes of this State and of New Jersey make express provisions that this may be done.

"The company has always been careful that nothing should be done to countenance the idea of monopoly. Anybody can carry on the business of sugar refining in this State or anywhere else so far as the American company is concerned. It has never made any contract or agreement to the contrary. Anyone can buy sugar from the American company or from any other refiner or seller. Anyone can sell at any price that he likes."

LEGAL SEPARATION.

Cruelty and Extravagance Alleged of the A. T. & S. F.

St. Louis, Dec. 4.—Bondholders of the St. Louis and San Francisco and the Atlantic and Pacific railroads yesterday appeared simultaneously in the Federal courts of St. Louis and Topeka, Kan., with a petition which, if granted, will be a decisive step in the direction of severing those roads from the control of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe. Theirs is an intervening petition to determine their right to participate in the purchase of the Santa Fe when the foreclosure takes place. The petition recites the whole story of the absorption of the petitioners' roads by the Santa Fe, the election of hostile boards of directors, the alleged unnecessary issuance of bonds, the appointment of joint receivers for the three roads and the recent failure of the petitioners to secure separate receivers. General John W. Noble is the senior counsel for petitioners and is working to secure legal separation from the Santa Fe and indemnity for alleged losses consequent to the joint receivership.

THE SITUATION SUMMARIZED.

A Bostonian Resident of Turkey Writes from Constantinople.

ANOTHER BAPTISM OF BLOOD.

The Armenians are in Despair—The Turks have the Lead—They Laugh at Europe and Well They May Do So.

Boston, Dec. 4.—The following summary of the situation in Turkey is contained in a letter written by a Bostonian who has been in that country during the major portion of a long life. It is from Constantinople:

Telegrams and letters inform the world, says the writer, of the continued massacres, the sack and loss at Harput. Note that: (1) Women and children are not outraged and killed as in the ordinary Mohammedan massacres.

(2) The chief object of the Moslem mobs and the Kurds is to kill the principal men among the Armenians and plunder their shops and houses.

(3) The greatest slaughter is among the poor villagers who try to defend their little all.

(4) The Turks and Kurds seem to have come to the deliberate conclusion that the surest method of extermination is to kill the men and to leave the survivors utterly helpless. In this they are right. The suffering in the highlands of Armenia this winter must be perfectly awful.

(5) The government clearly means that when the scheme of reforms(?) is put into execution, the number of Armenians to be benefited thereby shall be sensibly diminished. This is the real reply of the Turks to Europe.

(6) The Turks have been egregiously lying when they pretend that Armenians have provoked these dreadful massacres by first attacking Moslems. Save at Constantinople, on Sept. 30, and at Zeitoun, occupied by brave Armenian mountaineers, the Armenians have done nothing so far to justify the aspersions of the Turkish authorities.

(7) There has been system in all the massacres. Beginning at Trebizond the wave of murderous assault and pillage has swept on until now it has reached Sivas, and where it will stop we know not.

Selfish Policy.

Such is the new baptism of blood to which, in the Nineteenth century, the poor Christians of Turkey are subjected, while four hundred millions of Christians in America and Europe look on. We hear that ships of war have sailed from France, Italy, etc., but we know not that the powers of Europe have even now laid aside their jealousies for one short hour to stay the wave of Moslem cruelty and fanaticism and save the lives of these suffering, dying Christians. The Armenians are in utter despair. The Turks have the lead; they are mocking Europe, and well they may; for the attitude of the European powers (shall I say of the American government?) is utterly selfish and contemptible.

AT A STANDSTILL.

Turkish Ambassadors Waiting Instructions from the Powers.

London, Dec. 4.—A dispatch to The Standard from Constantinople says that the question of admission of additional guard ships into the Bosphorous is in suspense, and all diplomatic action in the matter is at a complete standstill for the present. Some of the ambassadors are still awaiting fresh instructions from their governments.

All of the diplomats are of the belief that the exercise of strong pressure stronger by far than that which has hitherto been brought to bear upon the Porte will be necessary to induce the Sultan to yield, and it is understood that such action will be taken immediately upon the receipt of replies by the ambassadors of the powers which are insisting upon the issuance of firmans to the representations they have made to their respective governments. The Sultan has made a personal appeal to the Russian, Austrian, German and French governments that they agree not to press their demands, but without success.

A TURKISH VERSION.

They Still Claim the Armenians are Responsible.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The Turkish legation has received from the Sublime Porte a report of the Armenian troubles at Trebizond signed by the civil and military officials, the ulemas and notables of the Vilayet, Mussulman, Greek or Orthodox and Catholic. In part it is as follows:

On Oct. 2, while a party consisting of Gen. Bahri Pasha, ex-vali of Van; Ahmed Hamdi Pasha, commander of the Redifs at Trebizond; Razi Hani, Persian consul at Trebizond; Hadji Omer Effendi, director of the posts and telegraphs, and Suleiman Bey, commander of the mounted police, were passing along a street in Trebizond, they were fired upon several times by a servant of an Armenian bishop and another Armenian. Bahri Pasha was shot in the leg and Hamdi Pasha in the foot. The assailants were instantly arrested. This incident, the first outbreak in Trebizond by the rebellious Armenians, caused some excitement, but was not followed by immediate disorder. Two days later, however, an Armenian, one Hatchik, while resisting arrest for complicity in the shooting, shot and killed Rahmi Effendi, in the Al Vassil quarter, and made his escape. The murder created intense excitement, and the streets were soon filled with a mob, many of whom carried arms. A rumor was circulated that the Armenians had assassinated the vali at the government house, and a rush was made for that place. The streets were blocked by the excited people, but after a time the authorities succeeded in dispersing the crowd, but public feeling remained very strong.

In view of the critical situation arising from the shooting Father Mesrob, acting representative of the Armenian bishop, and the most prominent citizens of the city, were summoned to the government house to attend a meeting to consider the best means of preventing further disorders. Only Father Mesrob and one merchant responded. They were implored to exert all their influence to prevent a repetition of the recent scenes, and to name the hiding place of the murderers, the arrest of whom would aid in restoring tranquility. The merchant, however, declared that he would not interfere in the matter, and Father Mesrob said he did not know the accused; and moreover, it appeared from reports that the two Pashas were wounded by a soldier, and that Rahmi Effendi was killed by a Mussulman.

U. S. Ships in the Levant.

Washington, Dec. 4.—A cablegram was received at the Navy Department from Rear Admiral Selfridge, reporting the arrival of the flagship San Francisco at Mersine to-day and her immediate departure for Alexandria. The San Francisco was recently ordered to the Levant to protect American interests jeopardized on account of the Armenian trouble. The Marblehead is also in Turkish waters, and the Minneapolis is crossing the Atlantic to Gibraltar, whence she will proceed without delay to Smyrna.

VENEZUELA BOUNDARY.

Salisbury's Reply to Olney Expected on Friday.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—A Washington special says: The steamship Britannia, due at New York Friday, will bring a reply to Secretary Olney's note to Lord Salisbury, touching the Venezuelan boundary dispute.

Semi-official announcements, after passing through several channels, leave little room for doubt that the British government will question the right of the United States to mix in, and flatly refuse to arbitrate upon the title of the disputed territory east of the Schomberg line, holding to the precedent that the area specified is part and parcel of the British possessions and therefore solidly British beyond peradventure.

BAYARD PRESIDED.

Locomotive Engineers Benevolent Society Dine.

London, Dec. 4.—The Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, United States Ambassador, presided at a dinner which was given this evening in aid of the fund of the Locomotive Engineers' Benevolent society. Mr. Bayard was enthusiastically received when he rose to address the assemblage. He declared that he could say in all sincerity that he had never attended a dinner in England with such warm sympathy. There was no party, there were no national distinctions there. He dwelt upon the international dependence of different callings of society, accentuating the indissoluble tie of humanity the world over and declaring that while parties and forms of government might be useful, the sense of human brotherhood was stronger and better than all else. He would be glad, he said, if he could be able to do anything to create a better feeling among the different classes. If the handworkers could realize the feeling of the brainworkers toward them it would make Great Britain stronger and better.

Several members of Parliament and a number of representatives of American trades unions were present.

$34,000 Pledged.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—A meeting of those interested in having the Republican national convention come to Chicago was held this afternoon at the Union League club. Of the soliciting committees only one-third reported. There had been pledged, they said, the sum of $34,000. The other two-thirds were not ready to report. One hundred thousand dollars is the sum thought requisite by Chicagoans to secure the convention, and J. Irving Pearce, the head promoter and proprietor of the Sherman house, considers the fact that one-third of the sum has been raised very encouraging. There will be another meeting Friday and the remainder of the committees are expected to report then. It is also expected to hear from some of the national committeemen.

Held Up.

Pawnee City, Neb., Dec. 4.—At 4 o'clock this morning Will Newlins, Burlington agent, was startled by a masked man breaking a pane of glass of the station office, and pointing a revolver at him, commanding him to hold up his hands. An accomplice, who was also masked, went through the safe and money drawer of the office, securing $500. The robbers also took the watch, overcoat and hat of the agent. They are supposed to have made their escape on a Rock Island freight train and have not been captured.

Armenian Relief Fund.

Boston, Dec. 4.—The following telegram was received from New York to-day by Frank H. Wiggin, acting treasurer for the Armenian relief committee in Boston: "Cable £5,000 to Constantinople from Christian Herald for Armenian sufferers; money in my hands. C. C. CREEGAN."

Dr. Creegan is secretary of the American board for the middle district.

Miss Helen Carruther, treasurer of the woman's board, has received and forwarded $1,251 for the same purpose.

Mishaps of the Texas.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Another mishap has befallen the battleship Texas, which recently met with trouble through buckling of her frames while in the dry dock at the Brooklyn navy yard. The Texas left Brooklyn this morning for a preliminary test of her engines at sea. This afternoon a message was received at the Navy Department saying that her steering gear had broken down and that she was at Tompkinsville. No particulars were given.

Carlyle Centennary.

London, Dec. 4.—The Carlyle centenary meeting took place at Chelsea to-day. The Carlyle house in Cheyne row, which was bought with money subscribed in England and America, was formally handed over to the trustees. The Hon John Morley presided at the meeting and made a speech.

Next G. A. R. Encampment.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 4.—The next encampment of the G. A. R., as fixed by the administrative council to-day, will be held Sept. 1 to 4 of next year. The naval parade will occur on the opening day; on Sept. 2 the regular grand parade of veterans and societies, and on the last two days the regular sessions for business will take place.

AFFIRMED BY SUPREME COURT.

No Hope for the Slayer of Richard Newell.

THE DATE HAS BEEN SET

Van Houten will be Executed the Third Week in December—A Review of the Case and an Interesting Opinion by Justice Hayt.

Denver, Dec. 4.—A. W. Van Houten, the slayer of Richard Newell, superintendent of construction of the Midland Terminal railroad, will expiate his crime on the gallows if there is no executive interference.

The judgment of the trial court, which found the prisoner guilty of murder and sentenced him to death, was affirmed this morning by the Supreme Court, and the execution was set for the week beginning Dec. 22 next.

The Crime.

The murder of Newell occurred on Dec. 19, 1893, just outside the town of Cripple Creek. Van Houten at the time was in charge of a mining claim known as the Black Wonder, and was taking care of that and a cabin thereon for other parties. The property was on the line surveyed for the Midland Terminal's route into Cripple Creek, and for several weeks prior to the murder was the subject of a big dispute as to its value between the owners and the railroad company. The grading of the road had been completed and the track laid directly up to where the cabin was locate. Finally, the matter was taken to court for an appraisement of the cabin and claim and an order obtained allowing the company to proceed with the road after they had paid the amount for which the property was condemned. With this order Newell proceeded on a train to the cabin and, alighting, entered the structure and laid the facts before Van Houten. The latter, it is alleged, declined to honor the order, and defied Superintendent Newell to remove the cabin. Newell expressed himself emphatically of his intention to follow out the instructions of the court and build the road through the claim. The men had some harsh words, which terminated in Van Houten drawing his gun and firing directly at Newell. The ball penetrated the latter's breast and death was almost instantaneous.

The Case Reviewed.

Chief Justice Hayt, who delivered the opinion, after reviewing the details of the murder and the grounds offered by Van Houten's attorney for a new trial, says:

"Plaintiff in error complains because the District Court overruled a motion for a change of venue. This motion bears date of Feb. 11, 1895, and by its terms refers to an information filed Jan. 12, 1895, while the record in this case shows that the plaintiff in error was tried and convicted upon an information bearing date of May 14, 1895. The record is not complete, but sufficient appears to show that the defendant was first indicted jointly with one Yeoman and one Hoskins for the murder of the deceased but that afterwards a separate information was filed charging this defendant with the murder.

"Under our practice, a motion for a change of venue is addressed to the sound discretion of the trial court, and its rulings thereon will not be reversed upon review except in cases of manifest abuse of such discretion; but where in a criminal case the defendant desires a review of an order overruling his motion for a change of venue, the action, together with all affidavits filed, whether in support or in opposition, should be preserved by bill of exceptions properly certified into this court.

Jury Challenges.

"The next error discussed brings up for review the action of the District Court in overruling certain challenges for cause interposed by plaintiff in error to certain jurors upon the panel out of which the jury to try the case was selected, but as none of these jurors served upon the trial of the case the ruling of the court with reference to such challenges is immaterial, as plaintiff in error failed to exhaust his peremptory challenges.

"It appears from an affidavit to be found among the files of the case that during the examination of one of the jurors plaintiff in error voluntarily absented himself from the court room for a few minutes. While absent he was in charge of a sworn officer, but his absence does not appear to have been noticed by court or counsel for a time; when noticed, proceedings were stopped until the defendant came into the court room; when the examination of the jury was renewed. The juror examined during defendant's absence was challenged by his counsel and did not serve upon the same panel that tried the case, but we are now asked to grant a new trial on account of such voluntary absence of the defendant.

"The record shows the personal presence of the defendant, and it cannot be contradicted in the manner resorted to in the case. Moreover, the facts alleged would afford no ground for a new trial if they were properly authenticated.

The Charge.

"The charge of the court to the jury is plain and explicit upon every proposition of law applicable to the evidence, and is free from error prejudicial to the defendant. The presiding judge not only gave full instructions upon the law of self-defense, which seems to have been the chief reliance of the accused, but he repeats in varying form such portions of this law as would be likely to appeal most strongly to the jury in behalf of the defendant.

"So, also the distinguishing features between murder of the first degree and murder of the second degree, and between both kinds of murder and manslaughter are carefully pointed out and emphasized by repetition. The complaint that is now made because certain instructions asked by defendant were not given in the precise language of his counsel is fully answered by the record, showing, as it does, that such instructions were fully covered by the charge as given by the court."

Plea of Self Defense.

In regard to the plea of self-defense the court says:

"All the other witnesses to the transaction swear positively that Newell had no weapon of any kind in his hand at the time, and that he did not attempt to draw a pistol, and made no motion that could be construed as indicating any such attempt; while several swear that Newell's attitude was argumentative rather than aggressive, that at the time of receiving the mortal wound he stood with one hand raised as though explaining something. It is conclusively shown that Newell had no weapon on his person at the time.

"The entire evidence excepting only that of the accused negatives the conclusion that this was a case of mutual combat, and thereby excludes the idea of manslaughter. So, also, the plea of self-defense is not within our consideration, as it is negatived by all the evidence except that of the defendant, and was resolved against him by the jury.

"The crime of murder alone remains. This the statute divides into two degrees, namely, murder of the first degree and murder of the second degree. Murder being established, the law in its humanity declares it to be murder of the second degree in the absence of circumstances showing it to have been murder of the first degree.

"In this case the proof must establish deliberation and premeditation to support the verdict. This, however, is not essential if there was a design and determination to kill formed in the mind of the defendant previous to or at the time the mortal wound was given. It matters not how short the interval. If it was sufficient for one thought to follow another, and the defendant actually formed the design to kill and deliberated and meditated upon such design before firing the fatal shot, this was sufficient to raise the crime to the highest grade known to the law."

Verdict Warranted.

The opinion concludes in the following words:

"The evidence for the State shows that when Newell stepped outside of the cabin the defendant followed him to the door; that he armed himself with a loaded rifle and pointed it at the deceased; that he had his victim entirely within his power for the space of perhaps one minute before the firing, the deceased at the time having his hand raised in argument; that the rifle, when discharged, was aimed at the most vital part of the human body, the heart. In view of these circumstances we cannot say as a matter of law that the verdict is not warranted by the evidence.

"Finding no error in the record, the judgment will be affirmed, and the calendar week commending Dec. 22, A. D., 1895, is designated as the week for carrying the judgment of the District court into effect."

CRIPPLE CREEK.

Latest News from the World's Greatest Gold Mining Camp.

Special to The Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Dec. 4.—Bankers stock went up to-day as a result of the news getting abroad of a big strike on the Grouse property. Last week a supposed extension of the Porcupine vein was opened up. A cross-cut has been made and the result is bonanza ore. They have a streak six inches wide that runs $900, and eight inches that runs better than five ounces. A picked assay has run over $100,000 to the ton. To-night, from a fair-sized streak, an assay of 676 ounces was secured.

The Los Angeles claim on Bull hill has been put into a stock company.

A surprise has been met with in the Ocean Wave, on which a good strike was reported last week. A shot put in the side wall shows two feet more of rich ore than was at first shown.

A good strike has been reported on the Abe Lincoln in Poverty gulch, which is owned by Tutt and Penrose.

The main shaft on the Pharmacist is down 600 feet. They are now drifting at the 250 foot level both ways. In the north drift they have ore that runs 200 ounces.

The Portland directors met yesterday and declared the usual monthly dividend of 2 cents a share, or $60,000.

ANOTHER BID.

San Francisco Would Like the Republican Convention.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—M. H. DeYoung, the California newspaper man and member of the National Republican committee, passed through the city to-day on his way to New York, where he will agitate the holding of the convention in San Francisco.

"The railroads," said Mr. DeYoung, "will make a rate of $25 from Chicago, New Orleans and kindred points and the delegates will have the most pleasant journey imaginable. We have been coming East to conventions for 40 years, and think it about time the conventions came to us. We have every facility the best hotels in the world, and ample telegraphic communications by Western Union, Postal and press associations.

"The convention has now been held in every other part of the country, and I think it time to try it on the coast, as we are now ready to take care of it and can offer the pleasantest convention city in the world."

WOOL GROWERS MEET.

To Petition Congress that the Duty on Wool be Restored.

Washington, Dec. 4.—A meeting of the wool growers and wool dealers, called by Mr. Lawrence, president of the National Wool Growers' association, was held here to-day. Ten or a dozen persons were present. There were a general interchange of views upon the necessity of incorporation of a duty on wool in any tariff measure proposed in Congress and a committee of five was appointed to examine a memorial to Congress submitted by Judge Lawrence, asking that the duty on wool be restored.

The committee consists of Mr. Lawrence, Bellefountaine, O.; Carey Cengill, Wabash, Ind.; Theodore Justice, Philadelphia; A. B. Shepherd, Marathon, Tex., and L. D. Burch, Chicago. Accompanying the memorial will be a great quantity of statistics showing the effect of the removal of the tariff upon the sheep and wool industry of the country, the whole making a large document.

The suit in the County Court entitled Jones vs. Williamson was concluded yesterday, and the verdict of the jury was for the plaintiff and fixed the damage at $70.

THE TAX ON BACHELORS

By EFFIE W. MERRIMAN.

[Copyright, 1895, by the Author.]

CHAPTER I.

In the year 1932 the tax on bachelors was unusually high, and genial Tom Wainwright was disposed to evade it, if possible. It was due on the first day of the new year, and Miss Alice Griggs had rejected him early in May. It was now the middle of November, and as more than six months had elapsed since that rejection he knew it would not be recognized in the eyes of the law as a sufficient reason why he should not be taxed. He had given no other young lady an opportunity to say "No," an oversight which he regretted now.

In the state where he lived there was a law to the effect that every bachelor should be taxed who could not show a written rejection or in other ways give proof that he had proposed matrimony to some eligible young lady and had been refused within a period of six months. It was determined to resort to every lawful means to break up the unmarried condition which forced so many women to compete with men in the labor market. Taxes were levied in accordance with the eligibility of the bachelor, and the money derived therefrom was used in the support of unprotected women.

Tom Wainwright, being 30 years of age, handsome, prosperous and in every way able to care for a wife, had for five years been obliged to pay a tax which he considered out of all reason. Not only that, but he knew that for the next ten years the tax would be steadily increased. He had on several occasions evaded it by engaging himself to some attractive maiden, then, when the danger of taxation was past for that year, causing a quarrel which resulted in his dismissal, but the authorities had become suspicious, and Tom had reason to believe that another such event would be closely investigated. Clearly he must find some new and yet plausible way to evade the tax on bachelors this year or deprive himself of many luxuries which he was sure he could not do without.

Down at his clubhouse his friends were entertaining a guest from abroad, and Tom ought to have shed the light of his cheerful smile on the scene. He knew very well that the fellows never enjoyed themselves quite so well when he was absent, but he felt in no mood for merrymaking tonight. He donned dressing gown and slippers, set a box of choice cigars on the table, which he pushed close beside the open grate; then, throwing himself into his most inviting easy chair, gave himself to the problem which confronted him. He had thought of no feasible solution when, the guest from abroad having been sufficiently entertained, Tom was joined by Sander Ridgway, his most intimate club friend.

"What's up, old fellow?" asked Sander, helping himself to an easy chair and a cigar. "We missed you at the club."

"I was too stupid to make a decent appearance, so preferred to remain at home. Have a good time?"

"Tiptop! I wish you could have met that fellow, Tom. What ails you, anyhow? You look decidedly morbid."

"I feel morbid. Business has been dull the past year, and it is almost time for that confounded matrimonial tax."

"You must have a big one to pay to make you look like this."

"It was $5,000 last year, and it will be heavier this. Confound such a law, anyhow! I believe it would be better to let women scratch for themselves, as they used to do in the good old days of our grandmothers."

"Oh, I don't know about that! Women's work cheapens labor, you know. That is one reason why the matrimonial tax became a law. And, after all, you would not like to see women obliged to care for themselves. It would look very bad for the men."

"I know it, Sander. I presume I'm selfish, but, really, this tax is as hard to pay as a doctor's bill."

"Then why don't you marry? You could support a wife on $5,000 a year."

"I have not yet seen any one who was worth the price of my freedom. No, thank you, Sander. I'd rather pay the money and live alone. But I don't see just where the money is to come from. There's the rub. I shall be obliged to take a cheaper room, discharge my valet, take meals at a second class restaurant and smoke 5 centers."

"That's where the law gets in its work, my boy. By a steadily increasing pressure of self denial it hopes"

"It is outrageous!"

"It gives you a choice. For my part I prefer matrimony."

"Is that a fact?"

"It is."

"Who is the young lady?"

"Miss Alice Griggs."

"O-h-h-h! Ahem! Is that is that why she refused me?"

"I presume it had something to do with it, my boy. She is a very sensible young lady."

"Tastes differ. However, I think she is. I congratulate you, Sander. You know, of course, that there was no serious lovemaking between us."

"To be sure. Alice said she suspected that you were fishing for a refusal, and so she accommodated you."

"I wish I had not given her the opportunity to accommodate me quite so early in the season. It might have helped me out of this difficulty had I been less premature with my proposal."

Tom did not choose to have it known that he had been so carried away by the charms of the lovely Alice that he had proposed without a thought of the consequences. It was a mistake which he did not make very often. He almost envied Sander, but he did not propose to have that known either. He was glad now that Alice had believed his lovemaking to have been for the purpose of securing a refusal, yet he could not help wondering whether it would have made any difference had she been undeceived. It was something he should never know, for he did not care to have the wife of another know that she came nearer to his heart than any lady whom he had ever met.

"Why don't you become engaged again?" asked Sander.

"I have gone my limit in that direction," replied Tom. "If I am party to another broken engagement, I shall be subject to a heavy fine."

"You are in a bad fix, old fellow, and that's a fact. Still you might let the next engagement run for the three years allowed, and then perhaps you would be better fixed financially, and the fine would not trouble you."

"I wonder how that would work." Tom's face brightened perceptibly. "I would have meantime the money that would otherwise be spent in the matrimonial tax to apply toward the payment of the fine, and it would be a great help out of present difficulties."

"If you could find some girl in whom you could confide some one who would agree to dismiss you at the end of the three years"

"I should be in trouble if she did not. When a man breaks the engagement at any time, it is bad enough, but if he does so after allowing it to run three years the law has no mercy on him. It would mean financial ruin."

"Clarissa Pearce is a sensible sort of girl"

"I'd rather be dead than be obliged to marry her. She would never let me off of her own accord. Besides she is 28 or 29 years old. She would not make such an arrangement unless she thought me in earnest, for it would deprive her of her pension."

"I don't understand."

"Don't you know that if a woman receives no proposal of marriage between the twenty-fifth and thirtieth years she receives an extra amount of money on pay day which is called a pension for the unprotected? This pension is paid once in three years, after the age of 30, to those who have not rejected a suitor since the last payment. Even if I could make up my mind to act as Miss Clarissa's escort during the next three years I doubt if she would be willing to consent to the arrangement, unless she meant to hold me to it at the end of that time."

"I had forgotten the pension law. It would deprive Miss Clarissa of two payments."

"And I should be taking an awful risk. No, Sander, it won't do. We must think of something else."

For several minutes there was silence between the two young men. Then Sander startled his friend by springing to his feet with a most exultant shout.

"I have it!" he said. "Tom, I can help you out of this scrape like magic. I know the very girl."

"You do? Old boy, if you help me now, I'll never forget it."

"I have a cousin"

"Have I seen her?"

"No; she lives in the country."

"Pretty?"

"Pretty as a picture graceful, too, and very well read. She is a stunner and no mistake, but"

"Well, don't hesitate. But what?"

"She has an awful temper."

"That doesn't count. I may show you an interesting case of 'Taming of the Shrew.' It would add variety to my humdrum existence. Really, I believe I should like it."

"Well, suppose you sit down and write a note explaining the situation fully. Daisy hates anything like deceit."

"Do you mean that I must tell her that I want to be engaged to her for a period as long as the law allows that I may evade the matrimonial tax, and that she must agree beforehand to dismiss me at the end of that time?"

"Tom, I can help you out of this scrape."

"Precisely. Daisy would try to make life a burden to you if she thought you were deceiving her."

"Do you suppose she will consent to such an arrangement?"

"I think so. She wishes to study music and has decided not to marry before her twenty-sixth birthday. She is 21 now and has property enough to enable her to take care of herself, so she cares nothing for the maiden's pay day. I think she would like an escort who would not trouble her with a lover's importunities and who would act as a shield between herself and possible lovers."

"It will do no harm to propose, at any rate."

Tom wrote the letter, as his friend had suggested, sealed it carefully, addressed it to Miss Margaret Blake and gave it to Sander to deliver. Sander inclosed it in one giving full particulars, and in due time Tom received the following reply.

Mr. Tom Wainwright.

DEAR SIR—I have just finished reading your proposal and my cousin's pleasant account of you, which he was so good as to send with the proposal. In reply, I will say that I agree to consider myself betrothed for a period of three years and to release you at the end of that time, provided you conduct yourself during that time as a gentleman should toward the lady whom he esteems highly, but does not expect to marry. I do not like endearments, but I understand that society is somewhat exacting in regard to the behavior of engaged people, and I shall try to so conduct myself that we may not be commented upon. I can see that you would prefer not to have it known that we are engaged simply for convenience. It will please me to have a desirable escort during my stay in town, and Cousin Sander assures me that I shall find you simply perfect. I wonder what he has told you about me. That I have an abominable temper, I presume. He considers that my chief characteristic. Well, it is bad, but console yourself with the thought that, so far as I know, it is the only fault I have! And I am not cross when things go to suit me. If you prove a satisfactory escort, I promise you will never know from experience that I am not simply angelic! Yours truly, MARGARET BLAKE.

Tom found this letter quite satisfactory and could hardly wait for the day when he was to see Miss Margaret, or Daisy, as her cousin called her and as he liked to think of her. A number of his best friends knew of his good fortune in finding a charming girl who was willing to be engaged to him for a period of three years and to give him his liberty at the end of that time.

"It will," he explained, "not deprive me of my freedom in any sense of the term. In fact, it will give me greater freedom. I can be pleasant with other girls without their thinking that I am making love, and even if I should fall in love with one of them my engagement to Daisy will not prevent me from explaining matters to the other girl and declaring my sentiments."

It was really quite a nice arrangement, and Tom would not have had a moment's uneasiness before he met Miss Margaret had he not overheard two of his friends talking about him one day at dinner.

"I wouldn't have believed Tom Wainwright would be so simple," said one of them, "as to go and engage himself to a girl whom he had never seen."

"He depended upon Ridgway's judgment, I understand," replied the other.

"But she is Ridgway's cousin, and one is always blind to the defects of one's relatives. Besides did you ever know Ridgway to be acquainted with any girl who was not charming? All girls are alike in his eyes. He has no more judgment than a Hottentot."

"There is no one," replied the other speaker, "whom I would rather see caught than Tom Wainwright. He is so fastidious! Think what it would mean to him to be obliged to escort an ugly woman for three long years and see Sander walking away with pretty Alice Griggs!"

The Proper Binding.

Young Wife I want these letters bound. They are the correspondence which passed between my husband and myself before we were married. Would you recommend a seal binding?

Bookbinder By no means, madam. They should be bound in whole calf. Indianapolis Journal.

Positively Successful Cures for Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Kidney and all Blood and Nerve Diseases—At All Druggists, 25 Cents a Bottle.

Mrs. Jane Fish, 608 East Second street, Kansas City, Mo., says: "My rheumatic trouble began in 1867 with such an acute attack that I was entirely helpless and had to be fed. Since then I have had similar attacks—each spring and fall growing gradually worse until I was a complete cripple all the time, having to walk with crutches. In April I bought my first bottle of Munyon's Rheumatic Cure and found it so much help that I continued until I had taken four bottles of the pills. I am now completely cured and since taking the second bottle last June I have not had a symptom of rheumatism. I walk as well as ever and feel as spry as a young girl. I say most heartily, God bless Munyon and his remedies."

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure seldom fails to relieve in one to three hours, and cures in a few days. Price 25c.

Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure is guaranteed to cure all forms of indigestion and stomach troubles. Price 25c.

SAFETY OF AMERICAN CITIZENS.

Our Interests in Turkey Must Not be Neglected.

MORE INFORMATION IS ASKED.

The Senate to Inquire Into the Sultan's Disregard of Life—Resolution Introduced Yesterday by Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Mr. Hoar (Rep.) of Massachusetts offered the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

Resolved, That the Senate will support the President in the most vigorous action he may deem fit to take for the protection and security of American citizens in Turkey, and to obtain redress for injuries committed upon such citizens there.

Resolved, That the President be requested to make known to the government of Turkey the strong feeling of regret and indignation with which the people of America have heard of the injuries inflicted upon persons of the Christian faith in Turkey, and that the American people cannot be expected to view with indifference any repetition or continuance of such wrongs.

Mr. Hoar also offered a resolution which was agreed to, requesting the President to communicate to the Senate all information received by him from the State Department in reference to injuries inflicted on the persons or property of American citizens in Turkey, and in reference to the condition of affairs there as to oppression or cruelties practiced on the Armenian subjects of the Turkish government. Also to inform the Senate whether all the American consuls in the Turkish empire are at their posts of duty; and, if not, to state the circumstances that have interfered with the performance of their duties.

INDIAN ASSOCIATION.

Women Discuss Wrongs Perpetrated against Aborigines.

Philadelphia, Dec. 4.—The wrongs perpetrated against the aboriginal inhabitants of this country were portrayed today at the annual meeting of the Woman's National Indian association, which opened this morning for a two days' conference in the Grace Baptist Church.

The address of welcome was made by Mrs. William Ducknell of Philadelphia. "Firewater" is accomplishing the desired end, and the Indians are dying from the effects of drunkenness, while to their children they communicate the deadly taint, in the seeds of consumption, which carries them off by hundreds.

The report of the corresponding secretary began by referring to the visits made by the president to the various auxiliaries and to the missions in California, Washington and Oregon. Six new auxiliaries have been organized, one each in New York, New Jersey, Wisconsin and Washington and two in California, while the Kingston, N. Y. committee has merged into a strong association and the committees at Portland, Ore., Pasadena, Oakland and Riverside, Calif., have been greatly strengthened and the Redlands branch, formed one year ago, as a committee, is now the headquarters of the Southern California association and is leading in new and helpful lines of work for the Indians of that section.

Rhode Island and New York have each courageously maintained the work they assumed a year ago, the former among the Spokanes and the latter at Agua Caliente, Cala., and New Jersey has been inspired to send out its own missionary to the Mauquis.

The following officers for the ensuing year were unanimously elected: Honorary president, Mrs. Mary L. Bonney, Rambault, N. Y.; president, Miss Amelia E. Quintin, Pennsylvania. The vice-presidents include—Southern vice-president, Mrs. E. John Ellis, Louisiana; Western vice-president, Mrs. John Bidwell, California; corresponding secretary, Miss E. W. Hones, New Jersey; recording secretary, Miss M. Taylor, Pennsylvania; treasurer, Miss Helen P. Foote, Pennsylvania.

Berlin Comments.

Berlin, Dec. 4.—All of the Berlin evening newspapers publish articles commenting upon passages in President Cleveland's message.

Referring to the President's allusions to Samoa and the insurance companies, the Tageblatt calls attention to the fact that it has always uttered warning against the adoption of too sharp measures against American insurance companies. Those papers friendly to Germany's policy in the colonies express hope that Germany will seize the occasion to obtain sole control over Samoa.

Missionaries Safe.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Mr. Alexander M. Terrell, the United States Minister to Turkey, cabled the State Department today from Constantinople that everything relating to American interests was satisfactory. The missionaries, he said, are safe and properly protected.

THE MENACE FROM JAPAN.

What Silver Demonetization Is Doing for Us.

To the Editor of The Sun—Sir:—An article in to-day's Sun stated that Japan was about to startle the manufacturers of America. Now, I am more than astonished at the lack of foresight displayed by the men who are intrusted with the care of our people, and again I cannot understand why a newspaper such as the Sun has not rung tocsins of alarm over the entire country ere this. The fact of the matter is, the U. S. are fostering commercial relations with a people that will eventually bear it every manufacturer and his employes in this country. The untold injury and want that China and Japan are responsible for in England is appalling to contemplate. While visiting Manchester this spring, after an absence of five years, I remarked to a one-time great manufacturer of cotton goods the unusual quiet that pervaded a once noisy city. "Oh," he replied, "we are out of the running. China and Japan can beat us out of even an existence, especially in the lower grades. They grow the cotton right around their mills, and pay six cents per day for their labor. Thus it does not require a great stretch of the imagination to foresee the day when even the few looms now in operation will be stopped indefinitely."

Now, while it is true, as your issue of to-day relates, that the Japanese can land bicycles at $12, buttons, matches, doors, sashes, and all kinds of woodenware, duty paid, at 30 to 50 per cent. less than the wholesale prices of our domestic manufacturers, these are small items as compared to the coming loss which this country will sustain through the injury to our valuable textile industries, viz: silks, cottons, and carpets, each employing a high class of labor which is anxiously sought after by every town and city corporation in the country, all of which have been encouraged by this now blind government of ours until hundreds of thousands of our people are making a good living, at the throwing, dyeing, weaving and finishing thereof, and, of course, the millions invested in handsome, healthy mills and machinery are a mere bagatelle to a prosperous country like ours, with its magnanimous policy that allows the worshippers of Confucius to steal in and undermine these enterprises which have required years of courage and inventive progress to even meet the price of European markets with a 45 per cent. protection.

European labor is certainly cheaper than ours, but it is easily ten times better paid than that of China or Japan. How can we expect a man, woman, or child in these United States to labor and exist on six cents a day as they do in the East? What can the Consul intentionde in your editorial page expect as an equivalent for this immense ruin, when the Japs are already building their own machinery? The few patents which they might be compelled to buy from us would be but poor compensation for our bread and butter. Why, these poor, benighted beings are just as clever in many respects as we are, especially in mechanics and weaving.

They have the raw material growing in their fields, and they have the brains to manipulate it and take advantage of the idiotic policy that allows them everything for nothing. To-day they are negotiating a commercial treaty with China, where they are aware that labor is even cheaper than theirs. Large cotton mills with hundreds of thousands of spindles are in full operation to-day and the weavers making exactly five cents a day for their labor, and then we humbug ourselves with the delusion of reciprocity when all the Eastern orders for ships, guns, etc., are given.

Mr. Japanese Consul, do not delude yourself with the idea that we are all nappling, nor do not try to make us believe in the possibilities America may derive by inviting ruin into the homes of her people. To avoid a commercial catastrophe we must have a special tariff provision, and even 250 per cent. will not place us beyond the bane of our incisive competitors of the East.

A PATRIOT.

New York, November 25.

MR. DOYLE RETURNS.

The Vice-President of the Portland has been Down East.

There are people in this section of the country who do not wear the same sized hats they did before they got a bit of money in Cripple Creek. Vice-President James Doyle of the Portland is not one of them. There are not many who have come out of the game bigger winners than Doyle, but he is still "Jimmie" Doyle to all who knew him when he run wild der machine and helped fix up city politics around the city hall.

Mr. Doyle got back yesterday from a trip to Portland, Me., where he was called by the sad mission of burying his eldest brother. Mr. Doyle says the East is just alive with talk of Cripple Creek and Colorado Springs. Everyone is talking it, from the porters on the trains to the cashier of the Chemical bank. Mr. Doyle was a bit wrathy over some articles that have been appearing in the New York World about the camp. He had several clippings in his possession that he had gathered while in the East. It seems that The World is running a series of articles about the camp. The one last Sunday had a big "scare head" and four columns of leaded matter in which the stock and mining excitement now on was declared to be a green-goods scheme. It was in the usual lurid style of The World, and Doyle says it will be a good thing as an advertisement. The more they abuse it the bigger the advertisement. What game Sheeny Joe and his trained corps of burglars are up to now it is hard to tell. It can hardly be blackmail, for some of his outfit have investments here and have been familiar with the camp for years. The most reasonable explanation is that The Sun, Herald and other reputable papers of New York have been giving a great deal of space to the camp of late.

Receiver Irvine has the permission of the court to sell the Coliseum building and is ready to receive offers. There is a fine opportunity for some one to pick up a snap there. The building represents an expenditure of about $17,000, but the receiver hardly expects to get anything like that out of it. In the hands of a competent manager who could attend to it there is little doubt but that the building could be made to pay well.

Miss Vantine of New York city is to be married to-day to the celebrated author, Gilbert Parker. Miss Vantine is a niece of Mrs. Valentine of Manitou, who has gone to attend the wedding, and has been a visitor to Colorado in years past.

The three men arrested for the robbery at Ramah some time ago were taken before Justice Walker yesterday for preliminary examination. He put them under $1,500 bond each for their appearance in the District Court.

A ROYAL FLUSH.

The Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught and Prince Christian have all been called to the bar, though they have never been known to occupy a brief.

Prince Henry of Prussia is a poor shot, and when Queen Victoria once asked him what luck he had on a shooting expedition he answered frankly, "I didn't kill any birds nor any keepers either."

It is not generally known, but it is a fact, that the Prince of Wales is very fond of modern English poetry. Sir Edwin Arnold and Algernon Charles Swinburne are his especial favorites, and he never travels without copies of their works.

Princess Marie of Orleans, wife of Prince Waldemar, has inaugurated in Copenhagen a new kind of sport. As soon as she hears a fire alarm she rushes to the fire and distributes money and refreshment to the firemen. She has been photographed recently in the regular uniform of a private fireman.

Youth and Age.

Though every old man has been young, and every young one hopes to be old, there seems to be a most unnatural misunderstanding between the two stages of life. This unhappy want of commerce arises from arrogance or exultation in youth and irrational despondence or self pity in age.

SPEAKER REED'S LEVEL HEAD

He Makes it a Rule Never to Give Promises.

GOOD HUMOR AND TACT.

It is Not Necessary to Make Any Promises Just Now—The Turkish Minister Leads a Gay Life Increase in Use of Cigarettes.

Washington, Dec. 4.—(Special)—Mr. Reed has had a very busy week of it. He arrived here last Sunday night, and from that hour to this has not had a moment's peace. Every Republican in town has wanted to see him, and his rooms at the hotel owned by Governor Morton, who, by the way, may be one of Mr. Reed's rivals in the next Republican national convention, have been crowded early and late. Not only members of the house, but senators and all sorts of people in and out of official life, have striven for the honor of a few moments at the ear of the big man who is to play such an important role during the coming year. Mr. Reed has a fine art of receiving and pleasing his callers. Good humor is his strong card, and with a smile and a joke and a queer twist of words and an inflection quite his own, but none the less piquant for that, he kisses off all inquirers who become too persistent or who ask awkward questions. Reed knows how to "stan 'em off," as the phrase goes, without giving offense. He makes it a rule never to give promises. All his life he has followed this rule, and he told me last summer when I saw him in his home at Portland that he believed it had been his salvation. If a man never puts out any political notes, he says, he is not likely to go into bankruptcy. Broken promises, according to Reed's theory, have ruined about half the politicians in the country, and he does not intend they shall ruin him.

A Cautious Policy.

He certainly is not making any promises concerning organization of the next house. He doesn't have to. He wouldn't promise if he had a hard fight for the speakership instead of a unanimous nomination. Six years ago Mr. Reed pursued the same cautious policy. Though then opposed by Major McKinley, the man who may be his chief opponent in the presidential battle of next year, he did not put out any promises in order to win the speakership. If Reed should reach the White House itself, I fancy he will do so without putting out any obligations, or what we in Washington call "political paper." He doesn't believe in it, and his head is level.

No matter how many people are butchered in Armenia, or how much suffering may be caused by the disorders in the Turkish empire, the Washington representative of the sultan continues having a good time night after night. There are no clouds upon the face of Mavroyeni Bey, the Turkish minister at this capital. He is one of the gayest men in town. Always at the first nights of the theaters, he has a fondness for going behind the scenes to meet the members of the companies. He has a swell turnout and dashes about town with handsome women by his side. He is popular in society and gives elegant dinners. He is one of the most gallant and successful of all the diplomatic beaus in town, and there are a good many of them.

Cigars and Cigarettes.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Miller calls my attention to a peculiar fact which was published in his annual report, but which appears to have escaped the attention of the newspapers up to this time. The number of cigars manufactured in this country during the calendar year, 1894, was 4,163,641,327. The number of cigarettes was 3,620,666,804. At first sight one would say this vast number of cigars and cigarettes was greater than all the men in the United States could smoke in a twelvemonth. But it is a curious coincidence that this almost inconceivable number of cigars and cigarettes means just about one smoke per day for every male above the age of 18 years. The census bureau estimates the number of such males now in the country at 21,000,000. Multiply this number by the days of the year, and we see that the total just about equals the number of cigars and cigarettes produced in the country last year.

Contrary to the general impression, the importations of Havana cigars amount to almost nothing at all in comparison with the number of cigars produced in this country. The number of cigars imported last year was only 37,000,000. In other words, where one Havana cigar is smoked in this country about 113 domestic cigars are consumed.

A large quantity of what are called "Turkish cigarettes" is sold in the United States. Most of them are made in New York. The number of cigarettes imported last year amounted to less than 4,000,000. The United States exported, in 1894, 462,000,000 cigarettes, and the demand for our machine made cigarettes is increasing all the time. In ten years the quantity exported has quadrupled.

WALTER WELLMAN.

Coin Made of Tree Gum.

The "mint officials" of the Malayan peninsula claim the distinction of "coining" the most unique piece of money now in use in the world. This curious "coin" is simply a thin disk or wafer of hardened vegetable gum, the original source of supply being the bola tree and a bluff of emery sand. Dozens of trusty officials are constantly employed in collecting bola gum and sifting and pounding the sand which is to be used as "alloy." The coins so struck are not only unique and curious on account of the material used in their composition, but because they have the least exchange value of any medium.

No other piece of "money" in existence can be acquired with such a small expenditure of time or goods as the bola gum "coin;" consequently such pieces are valued very lightly by those unlucky enough to come into possession of a few millions of such disks. It is almost impossible for an American, whose ideas of minimum money value are associated with the cent piece, to frame a very definite conception of the small value of this standard of exchange. We consider the cent piece as being of no particular consequence, yet it could be readily exchanged for 5,000 freshly minted bola gum coins and a $20 gold piece could be traded even for a whole shipload of such "mediums of barter and exchange."—St. Louis Republic.

The Moon Not Inhabited.

It is impossible, of course, for us to know anything positively concerning the question whether the moon is or is not inhabited. However, the astronomers long since generally agreed that the probabilities are altogether against such a supposition. In coming to this unanimous conclusion the astronomers did not express themselves thus positively without making provisions for extraordinary conditions that might exist on the face of fair Luna. So, in recording their disbelief in the idea that the shining planet is inhabited, they did so by saying, "If inhabited at all, it is certainly not peopled by beings similar to those existing on the face of our globe." The strongest presumption against the existence of animal life on the moon is found in the fact that "our silvery sister world" has no atmosphere. If she has an atmosphere at all, and such is hardly likely, it is not of sufficient density to support animal life even in its lowest forms. The proof of the nonexistence of a lunar atmosphere is found in the fact that the planet, viewed through a telescope, shows no haze or dimness on the edge of its disk, and, secondly, when the moon intervenes between us and the more distant heavenly bodies, there is not the least trace of refraction visible. The conclusion, therefore, is that the moon is without either an atmosphere or animal inhabitants.—St. Louis Republic.

A Way to Stop Dueling.

A Mexican court has devised a mode of punishing dueling which will perhaps be more effective than the death penalty. The survivor in a fatal duel, in addition to three years' imprisonment and a fine, is sentenced to pay the family of its victim $4,500 a year for 18 years, to pay all costs of the victim's funeral and the costs of court. In the face of such a penalty as this most men will conclude that there is not enough honor in dueling to justify the risk.

Special Stockholders' Meeting.

A special meeting of the stockholders of The Calumet Mining and Milling company will be held at the office of the company, No. 10½ East Pike's Peak avenue, Colorado Springs, Colo., on Tuesday, December twenty-fourth (24th), 1895, at ten-thirty (10:30) a. m., to devise ways and means of paying off the pressing debts against the company. The directors earnestly urge that every stockholder be present or that they be represented by proxy, as some action must be taken or there is serious danger of the company losing its property, and this is positively the last chance of saving the property, and for the transaction of any other business that may properly come before the meeting. The books for transferring stock will close on Wednesday, Dec. 18, and remain closed until Dec. 26. Meeting called by order of the board of directors and president.

SOME PRESIDENTIAL MISTATEMENTS.

Yesterday, in discussing the President's message, we pointed out some of the significant omissions. To-day we wish to call attention to certain misstatements of fact.

The first of these is that the McKinley act caused our exports to decrease, and thereby made it necessary for us to send gold abroad to meet our obligations. This statement is the more astonishing because it is so easily disproved. It is not a matter of opinion, but a matter of fact. From the official tables we find that the exports of the United States for the year 1891 were $881,440,510, and the imports were $844,916,156. For the year 1892, the exports were $1,030,278,148; the imports were $827,402,462. In that year, Mr. Cleveland was elected President, and it was known that the tariff would be revised by the Democrats. The exports for 1893 fell off to $847,665,194, and the imports rose to $903,409,922. In 1894, the exports were $892,140,572, and the imports were $654,994,699.

From these figures it appears that the volume of imports in 1892 was greater, and the volume of total exports and imports was also greater, than in any other year in our history. And this was the culminating year of what the Democracy has called the "culminating atrocity" of the McKinley tariff. The President has made a mistake in calling attention to figures which absolutely disprove his assertions in regard to the effect of the tariff law.

The second misstatement that we wish to call attention to is that all our financial legislation was had with our present standard—the gold standard in view. This also is a matter of fact and record, and not a matter of opinion. When the silver certificates were issued, does anybody but the President suppose that the lawmakers meant that a bill calling for the payment of "five silver dollars" should be redeemed necessarily in five gold dollars? or that these very silver certificates which were meant to give an additional circulation to silver should be used for the purpose of discrediting and demonetizing silver?

The fact is that the President and his Secretary of the Treasury decided, in a purely arbitrary way, to reverse the intent of the lawmakers in regard to the silver certificates, and to use them, not to give currency to silver and maintain the parity between silver and gold, but to discredit silver, and send it still lower than it was already.

AFFIRMATIVE ACTION NEEDED.

We are a little surprised at the utterances of Mr. Cannon of Illinois concerning the President's message. Not with his criticism of the President for neglecting to give to the Congress information as to state of the Treasury, and the excess of expenditures over receipts; but with his concluding remarks. "From the tenor of the whole message," says Mr. Cannon, "it is patent that in his judgment no legislation increasing the revenues is needed or would receive his approval. It is clear, therefore, that there is nothing possible through legislation or administration that will cure our ills during his term."

This seems to mean that if the President thinks no legislation increasing our revenue is necessary, the Congress ought not to enact any legislation of this kind. If this is what Mr. Cannon means, we cannot agree with him. The Congress is as well able as the President to judge whether revenue legislation is needed. It enacted the present revenue law, and if the reports of the Secretary of the Treasury show, in the judgment of the Congress [illegible] it is the clear duty of the Congress to make some provision for more revenue. It makes no difference that the President would veto any measure of this kind—the duty of the Congress would not be discharged if it neglects, for fear of a possible veto, to do what it can to relieve the country. If it does so neglect its duty, the responsibility for the depressed condition of the Treasury will rest at least partially on its shoulders. If it enacts a law providing for an increase of the revenue, and then the President interposes his veto, the responsibility will rest where it ought to rest—solely with the President and his party.

It may be said that the introduction of any tariff bill would lead to long debate and would open the whole question for a prolonged and fruitless struggle. In answer to this, it may be said that a very simple bill could easily be framed, increasing for instance the duties on sugar and wool, which would not disturb the other schedules of the existing tariff at all. And even if the introduction of such a measure would lead to prolonged debate, the fault, if there were any, would lie with those who resisted the passage of a measure which is designed to afford relief to the Treasury.

Speaker Reed, in his speech accepting the speakership, indicated that, in his opinion this Congress will do well if it does very little. In a general way this is true; but we do not believe that the presence in the executive chair of a chief magistrate opposed to revenue legislation relieves the House altogether of the responsibility for enacting some affirmative legislation designed to relieve the Treasury. The Republican party is not a do-nothing party. It has won its victories because of its affirmative policies, and not because of its negative virtues. If it is to win next year, it will be because the people believe that it will do something affirmative to relieve the present situation. We think it is the duty of the present House to give to the people of the country a sample, so to speak, of the sort of legislation it will enact when it has the power, and to place upon the President, and upon those who uphold him in Congress, the entire responsibility for defeating the will of the people, which has been so clearly indicated in the last two elections.

A WORD TO THE WISE.

We had a curious request a day or two ago. It was for a certain amount of news every day about the stock market here, "as long as the craze continues." This is a fair illustration, we suppose, of the way a good many eastern people are looking at our mining stock transactions here. It is not yet realized that Cripple Creek has any more bottom than dozens of speculative mining camps in the past. Notwithstanding the information sent out from here, the general intelligence among the average readers of newspapers in regard to Cripple Creek is still deplorably small. This is partly due to the misleading and sensational character of the dispatches sent out from Denver, wherein all the possible sensational features are emphasized, and the wildest possible stories are told in regard to the camp and the people connected with it, while the solidity of the camp is ignored, and the facts that show its genuine character are suppressed or neglected.

But the attitude of the eastern people in regard to Cripple Creek also contains a salutary warning for us. So far, the stocks put on the market have for the most part been sound, and based upon real value, or first rate prospects. There has been very little "water," and not much wind about them. But if, taking advantage of the desire of speculation, stocks are put upon the market that have nothing back of them but wind, or if stocks that are now good are watered, then there will inevitably come a collapse that will inflict great injury upon the camp and upon this city as the center of its interests. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

The interview which we printed yesterday morning with Mr. L. V. De Forest of the New York Consolidated exchange, was an important and interesting one. Mr. De Forest has been connected with that exchange for a long time, and is thoroughly familiar with its workings and with its policy. The editor of The Gazette has been acquainted with him for some half-dozen years, and knows him to be a man of weight. He says that there never was a duller time in New York in most of the old stocks, and that the members of the exchanges there will be only too glad to deal in the Cripple Creek stocks if only those stocks are protected by the proper guarantees—that is to say, if the exchanges exercise care in listing them, requiring every company before listing to show that it has the property it professes to have—and if the stocks are duly registered by a thoroughly responsible company. Those conditions are already met by a number of the better stocks on our market, and there is no reason why they should not be listed at once on the Consolidated exchange in New York.

The Editor of The Gazette returns thanks to The Evening Telegraph for its very kindly and considerate comment on his election as a member of the school board of district number eleven. It is a position of difficulty and of hard work, with no remuneration except the consciousness of having done one's duty, and he would not have accepted it except upon the unanimous desire of the members of the board. Upon the election of Mrs. Hudson as a member of the board, we feel that we ought to congratulate the district. She has already shown herself, as secretary of the board, to be a most efficient and capable officer, and [illegible] will not interfere with the performance of her duties as secretary. Indeed, her position as secretary will help to make her services more valuable as a member of the board.

Some time ago we ventured to prophesy that among the first resolutions introduced in the new Congress would be one affirming the Monroe doctrine, and one asking that belligerent rights be granted to the Cuban insurgents. The prophecy was fulfilled the first day of the session. Mr. Lodge and Mr. Cullom both introduced resolutions in regard to the Monroe doctrine, and Senators Call and Pasco both introduced resolutions and petitions in regard to the Cuban recognition. All these were referred to the committee on foreign relations, from which no doubt, a report will soon be forthcoming.

PRESS COMMENTS.

How New York and London Papers View the Message.

The New York Tribune President Cleveland's message is unique, as a revelation of character. No President has ever delivered another message affronting so large a share of the people. Its treatment of foreign questions will affront very many of his own party; its treatment of the silver question will offend more than two-thirds of that party; its pretense that the present whisky and sugar tariff which he denounced as "perfidy and dishonor" is in principle based on denial of the right of governments to protect industries will offend every sincere advocate of that cause; and its demand for the substitution of bonds for greenbacks will affront many Democrats; while in scarcely any respect will the message satisfy the great majority who elected more than two-thirds of the present House of Representatives.

New York Times "The President recognizes that the ultimate cause of our difficulties are remote, that they spring from a mistaken policy for which each party is more or less responsible, and that this system has so long been in existence, has so far affected the opinions and habits of the great body of the people, that its reform requires the hearty co-operation of the clear-headed and right-minded men in public life, without regard to party."

New York Sun—"There are two passages in Mr. Cleveland's message which deserve unqualified consideration. The first is his announcement that England has been notified regarding her dispute with Venezuela that the present administration adheres to the Monroe doctrine; that the traditional policy of the United States is formally opposed to any forcible increase of the territorial possessions of any European power on this continent; and that the policy embodied in the Monroe Doctrine is right and sound, and will be maintained."

The London News "A worse financial muddle than Mr. Cleveland stated would be difficult to conceive. If such is the result of tampering with the currency for the supposed relief of powerful interests it is worth the attention of our currency doctors.

The Venezuela dispute is a matter in which the United States are not directly concerned. The principle of arbitration is invaluable, but its friends should beware of straining it unduly. The comparative weakness of Venezuela does not give that country exceptional rights. Arbitration has nothing to do with the relative strength of the parties. The President's message is silent regarding the outrage on the British Guiana police. It is neither dignified nor politic for Washington to take up the quarrels for South American communities which do not observe the usages of civilized nations. The United States will find out some day that this sort of patronage involves corresponding responsibilities and will not like it at all.

With regard to Armenia it should be thought that when American missionaries are robbed and evicted with the connivance or complicity of the Sultan an American warship would be a better agent than the powers who are all protocols and no policy. The lives of Americans in Asia Minor cannot be considered safe. It would go hard with Mr. Cleveland if he allowed them to perish.

The London Chronicle The President's reference to Armenia is practically an invitation to the powers to coerce the Sultan and being backed up by the sending of a cruiser it must be regarded as a definite adherence of the United States to the European concert. Few honest critics can say anything against the references to Venezuela. We agree with the President that the matter is eminently suited for impartial arbitration."

The London Times—"The failure of Congress to embody Mr. Cleveland's proposed financial measures in legislation will undoubtedly give a severe shock to business interests. We shall be greatly surprised if the plan is not welcomed in the great commercial centers of the United States if Mr. Cleveland is right, as he is regarded as being by dispassionate observers here."

The London Standard—"The maintenance of friendly relations between Great Britain and the United States is of such supreme importance that we cannot but regret the tone in which President Cleveland alluded to the dispute with Venezuela. If we may judge the tone and substance of the dispatch addressed Ambassador Bayard in July from the paraphrase communicated to Congress we are not in the least surprised that no answer has yet been received. We undertake to predict that when the answer reaches the White House it will furnish the President with much matter for serious reflection. We have far too much confidence in the strength and generosity of American character to believe for a moment that the President will be sustained in his position by the better order of transatlantic sentiment."

Referring to the Bering sea paragraph of the message The Standard says: Mr. Cleveland has still to urge upon a refractory Congress decency and justice in complying with this plain condition of an honest award."

"Upon the matter of currency reform the President writes lucidly and emphatically, as usual, but we are not much impressed by the remedy he proposes."

The London Post—"Regarding Samoa and Venezuela the message appears to be framed on lines that Senator Chandler might approve. The President appears to assume that England must be wrong because she is stronger than Venezuela."

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of The Bison Mining and Milling company will be held at the office of the company, No. 114 East Kiowa street, Colorado Springs, Colo., on Wednesday, Jan. 8, 1896, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing five directors to serve during the ensuing year, and at this meeting the question of increasing the capital stock of said company will be considered, and any other business transacted that may properly come before said meeting.

The books for transferring stock will close on Wednesday, Jan. 1, 1896, and remain closed until Jan. 10, 1896.

DENVER MINING SPECULATION.

Clerks Resigning Salaried Positions to Become Brokers.

IT IS ALL WRONG

So says D. H. Moffat—Meanwhile He Keeps a Mining Expert Constantly Buying—How the Situation Is Represented.

A dispatch to The Chicago Record from Denver reads as follows

Speculation in Cripple Creek mining stocks remains the chief topic of conversation You hear it on the streets, at public resorts and in private places A lady who attended church returned to her boarding house announcing that she had arranged to buy some stocks tomorrow, Sums from $10 to several hundred are being contributed to the rapidly increasing fund that is drawing the great supply of gold stocks offered on the markets of this State The new exchange at Victor started off last night the Denver real estate exchange begins a daily call of unlisted stocks to-morrow, the evening exchange plan at Colorado Springs will be set in motion during the coming week and now the Denver Chamber of Commerce is talking of holding a daily call for exclusively dividend paying stocks Clerks are resigning regular salaried positions to open brokers offices investment bankers realize the desire gamblers, men of income and leisure are buying seats on the exchanges now selling at 200 and 300 per cent above the original cost It is a general prediction that nothing can prevent a rise in Cripple Creek stocks during the coming week

"This speculation is all wrong" said D H Moffat, president of the First National bank, "and the Colorado Springs people are more reckless than they are in this city The purchase of mining stocks of companies without the slightest value to base quotations on is dangerous and will result in disaster in the end There are enough stocks on the market of legitimate companies with property and rich deposits to make the certificates of value to investors, and this speculation in cheap stocks will injure the whole mining business, I fear Colorado has done well in opening up Cripple Creek and making old camps prosperous We don't want to injure the reputation of our mines by this crazy stock speculation"

And yet Mr Moffat's mining expert is secretly and quietly buying all the Anaconda stock he can find for sale Warnings of this kind are laughed at by the crowd The results of the last six months in a dozen instances where the cheap and worthless stocks have been made valuable by the gold veins or ore rich in the camp are quoted repeatedly to show that prospects are good for future rich strikes

Yesterday a miner employed on the Decker property, which is owned by two young Canon City men, was arrested for embezzling some of the rich ore of that mine He had eleven pounds in his pockets and when his cabin was searched $1,000 worth of ore was found under his bunk

The smelters advance their charges $1 a ton to-morrow because of the great amount of ore offered them, and the reduction works at Cripple Creek and Florence decline to contract for more The Denver and Rio Grande railway puts on its special Pullman express direct to Cripple Creek this week These are some of the reasons given for the encouragement of ore speculations in the gold stocks of Cripple Creek

L V. De Forcest of the New York Consolidated exchange, who has come to Colorado to investigate the methods of the mining exchanges says that no stocks will be listed in New York that are not registered, and that the fullest guarantee of the stability of all such stocks as are listed will be required

The splendid career of Cripple Creek may be repeated and possibly eclipsed by West Creek, which is within fifty miles of Denver and almost in sight of the dome of the capital The greatest activity prevails among the miners and prospectors and town-site boomers There are now several hundred assessments worked and the surveying of claims has just begun There will probably be several thousand claims surveyed and recorded before spring The miners claim the mineral is richer than that in Cripple Creek on the surface It is locked in clearly defined veins and can be easily traced While the entire country is covered with a thick growth of insignificent timber, the drift is shallow and does not operate as a barrier to the discovery of leads, as in many other camps The accessibility of the camp is certain to make of it a favorite, It is but twenty-one miles south of Platte station on the Denver, Leadville and Gunnison railway and eighteen miles north of Woodland Park on the Colorado Midland railroad Two stage lines are kept busy between Woodland Park and West Creek and one between Platte station and the camp Two towns, Tyler and Pemberton have already been established and there are nearly 1000 people at the camp

EASTERN MARKETS.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

New York, Dec. 4—Money on call, steady at 2@2½ per cent, last loan at 2 and closing offered at 2.

Prime mercantile paper 4½@6 per cent.

Bar silver 67½

Mexican dollars 51—Sterling exchange is steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4 87½@4 88 for 60 days, and $4 89 for demand. Posted rates $4 88½@4 89; commercial bills $4 87@4 87½.

Government bonds steady, State bonds quiet; railroad bonds irregular. Silver at the board was neglected.

Sugar was the principal feature of the trading at the stock exchange to-day, but neither the sales nor the fluctuations were as important as on yesterday. Still 74 000 shares of the stock changed hands and the price ranged between 102¾@105, closing at 104, a gain of a full point on the day. The stock opened fractionally lower at 102¾, but soon rose to 105½ on the advance of price of refined and the denial that a suit had been brought against the company with a view of restraining it from doing business in this State. Later in the afternoon, however, Treasurer Searles was served with papers in a suit brought by Syracuse parties and the stock ran off to 104¼. Support was forthcoming at the decline and the stock closed at 104 Chicago Gas, while rather feverish, ruled slightly higher than on yesterday at 63 @65½ Tobacco ran off ⅝ to 79¼ in the early trading, and then returned to 80½ Rubber broke 1½ to 29 and Leather preferred 1 to 64 The railway list opened lower, then became steadier, but ran off again in the late dealings Burlington and Quincy, B & O and the Internationals were weak throughout London was a seller of international stocks, the President's message, at least that part dealing with currency matters having fallen flat. The firmness of sterling exchange market and the likelihood of increased gold exports on Saturday had a tendency to check trading for the bull account The November statement of the St. Paul and Rock Island did not come up to expectations, and there was moderate selling in consequence. B & O. was especially weak and fell to 87¾ B. & O. was heavy and on sales of only 2,000 shares dropped 5¾ to 50½ and closed at 51¼ In the specialties Pacific Mail rose ⅝ to 33, declined to 31¾ and recovered to 32¼ Consolidated Gas jumped 2¾ to 149 and Evansville and Terre Haute 4 to 102 The market closed irregular and in the main weak Net changes show declines of to 1¼ per cent B & O., however, lost 4¾ to 3¼ Pacific Mail gained ¼. Sugar 1 and Consolidated Coal 1¾ per cent. Total sales were 221 144 shares.

Bonds were irregular, but in the main weaker. Sales footed up $1,127,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Dec 4—The Northwest was a seller of wheat here and in New York today Wall street had likewise come for sale. The offerings were not bulky but they were continuous and as the constant dropping of water will wear away a stone, so the steady selling of wheat resulted in a decline in values of the grain.

The trade was devoid of interest. Partridge was a fairly good buyer, through his own house and by brokers Some of the bull professionals also bought, but when the demand became slack the direction turned downward Opening Liverpool cables were steady at a decline of ¼ pence. The closed ones were weak.

Receipts were moderate as they usually are on Wednesday, but the Northwestern arrivals were in excess both of last Wednesday and of the corresponding day of last year Chicago received 173 cars and the Northwest had 833 Withdrawals from store were 68,746 bushels. Export clearances were fair at 379,986 bushels Closing continental cables were unchanged to lower May wheat opened from 60½ to 60⅝ sold between 60⅝@60⅞ and 60½@60⅝, closing at 60⅝, ⅛ under yesterday. Estimated receipts for to-morrow 250 cars.

Corn was lacking in strength again today. At the opening prices hovers around the closing quotations of yesterday, but with the decline of wheat came a similar disposition in this market. Holders of corn were very much discouraged and no one seemed willing to buy for an advance Receipts were 165 cars and 63,868 bushels were taken from store

Liverpool cables quoted a steady feeling at a decline of ¼ pence Export clearances were 286 846 bushels Trading became lifeless later and prices, which had steadied a trifle, held unchanged through the rest of the session May corn opened at 28⅝@28⅞, sold between 28¾ and 28½@28⅝ closing at 28⅝@28¾, a shade higher than yesterday. Estimated receipts for to-morrow 100 cars.

THEY HEARD BURGLARS.

And Mr. Nooliewed Displays the Courage That Is Usual.

This time it was Mr. Nooliewed who heard burglars, and he prepared to go boldly down and meet them in mortal combat. He was pale, but firm.

"Oh, Algy, dear," cried his wife, clinging to him, "don't go! The silver, being our wedding presents, is mostly plated, anyhow."

"A man's house is his castle, my love. Shall I allow"

"Well, then, let us hoist the window and ask Mr. Homer from next door to come in the back way and surprise them. He said only yesterday that he would be pleased to have us call on him at any time."

"Say no more, Aphilia. I have promised at the altar to protect you, and I will. They are in the dining room, and I shall start down the back stairs and confront them. You may stand at the window and hail a policeman, should one pass."

In spite of this Mrs. Nooliewed shut herself in a closet until she suddenly remembered that she had married Algy for better or for worse. Then she decided that it was her duty to assist him. She cautiously opened the door and peered into the hall. All was dark and silent, and she crept down the stairs. In the dining room was the sound of a scuffle.

"What shall I do?" she moaned. "They are killing Algy, I know, and I shall be a widow before my wedding clothes are out of style!"

Just then the door flew violently open and two dark figures rolled into the hall at her feet. With a courage which surprised her, she flew at the burglar who was on top. In the midst of this diversion the figure underneath sprang to his feet and flew out of the front door, while Mrs Nooliewed shrieked:

"Are you going for the police, Algy? Do hurry, then; I can't hold the wretch long."

With a bound he, too, was on his feet, and to her horror she saw the convulsed features of her lord.

"Good gracious, Aphilia, have you no sense! I"

"Why, Algy, I thought you were the burglar and I"

"And I thought you were another of the gang, so"

"And I came to the rescue and"

"Well, you rescued him all right enough, if that was what you were after."

With this scathing remark, Mr. Nooliewed started up stairs in search of the arnica while his wife mentally decided that marriage was a failure and that she was not sorry she had bought that new hat, after all. Chicago Times-Herald.

Wonderful Help.

It is hard to remember unrelated, unassociated facts. The science of mnemonics, if there is such a science, consists largely in training the mind to hang things upon their own pegs, as it were in other words, to associate one thing with another. But such processes of relation should be simple and natural

"In what year was Abraham Lincoln born?" asked a public school teacher, who had been taking a course of mnemonics under a specialist.

"I don't remember," answered the pupil.

"Don't remember! Well, you must go about it in the right way. How many muses were there?"

"Nine

"Of course Now double that number"

"Eighteen."

"Now multiply by 100."

"Eighteen hundred."

"Very good! Hold on to that. How many graces were there?"

"Three."

"Precisely. Multiply that by itself."

"Nine."

"Just so! Now add that to the result you first obtained, and what have you?"

"Eighteen hundred and nine."

"Well, now, there you have it. Lincoln was born in 1809. Everything depends upon going to work in a proper manner. The memory needs a bit of help, that's all." Youth's Companion.

Wise Indeed.

"Bunkins, I guess, is about the smartest man of his years in this community," said the citizen who observes.

"Knows a great deal, does he?"

"Knows a great deal? I should say so. Why, sir, that man knows almost as much as his 19-year-old daughter, who is in the high school." Washington Star.

CITY COUNCIL IN SESSION.

There was a Heap of Talk and Little Results.

NO TELEPHONE FRANCHISE YET.

But It is Evidently Coming Next Time—The Council Decides that Policeman Harlan was Not to Blame on Sunflower Day.

At the adjourned meeting of the City council last evening all members were present.

A petition for an electric light at the corner of Huerfano and Prospect streets was referred to the street committee.

Alderman Leech reported that it was not feasible to build a foot bridge on the old bridge across the monument on Huerfano, and recommended that the city engineer make estimates on a new bridge with sidewalks.

C. E. Edwards was appointed a special policeman without pay to serve at the Santa Fe depot.

The report of the police magistrate for November was submitted.

The ordinance regulating the storage of oil, naphtha, etc., was read. Prof. William Strieby, of Colorado College gave the council some information regarding the explosive qualities of these oils. He thought the proposed ordinance would furnish as great an amount of safety as is general in cities and would be much better than at present.

Upon motion the matter was referred to a committee composed of Prof. Strieby and City Attorney Goudy to prepare an ordinance and submit it.

An ordinance amending the fire department ordinance was introduced. It is intended to regulate the burning of rubbish in the city. The ordinance went back to the committee for further revision.

An ordinance amending an ordinance was introduced regarding fast driving. The object is to permit the water superintendent to drive fast at fires. Went over under the rules.

The matter of a franchise for the Automatic Telephone company was taken up. Alderman Hughes moved that the ordinance which was rejected be substituted for the one introduced two weeks ago. This ordinance required the new company to put its lines under ground.

Alderman Dunbar again presented his resolution, which he would have take the place of a franchise.

Alderman Hughes's motion was lost, 5 to 2, Alderman Watson voting with him.

Alderman Dunbar moved that the resolutions be substituted for the ordinance. Carried. Under this the resolutions go over to the next meeting as the rules could not be suspended.

A number of bills connected last month were allowed.

Alderman Hughes brought up a bill by Marshal Dana for small expenses that had been running for three months. He thought the bills should be presented monthly. The bill was allowed after considerable discussion, in which the alderman showed a disposition to camp on the Marshal's trail.

Some of the residents of the West Side asked that the grade be established along block 40 on Grant avenue. Referred to the street committee.

Alderman Hughes brought up the matter of the report presented two weeks ago in which the police committee gave an opinion on the conduct of Policeman Harlan last Sunflower Day. It occasioned a very animated discussion in which various features of the matter were gone over. The following resolution was finally adopted:

Be it resolved, by the City council of Colorado Springs that Officer Stephen Harlan be and he is hereby fully exonerated from any blame for his conduct as an officer on last Sunflower Day in this city, and that no blame attaches to him on that behalf.

ELEVEN HUNDRED DOLLARS.

The Presbyterian Church has Gone Out of the "Sacred Bazar" Business.

A short time ago the pastor of the First Presbyterian church in this city told his congregation that he thought they had gone out of the sacred bazaar business to stay. He was right.

Instead of holding fairs and festivals, bothering all the men and working all the women nearly to death, the congregation has a special offering every year about this time, raised by self-denial or given as a thanksgiving donation. Everybody takes a part in it, and it seems to be a popular way of raising money. Last year it was tried, and the net result was about $500. Last night at the prayer meeting, which was turned into a thanksgiving service and at which by the way, there must have been nearly 400 people present—the result of this week's special self-denial and thanksgiving offering was announced. A good many have not handed in their envelopes yet, so that a hundred dollars or more will probably still be added to the amount; but up to date, the total is $1,117.13.

As a means of raising money, that seems to beat an ordinary church fair out of sight.

A statement was made by the church treasurer, and by H. H. Seldomridge for the board of trustees, showing that the finances are in much better condition than for three years past. All the bills have been paid during 1895 as they came due, and it was not necessary to borrow any money, and $800 has been paid on the debt, out of the sinking fund.

From a secular point of view, the securing of more than $1,100 as a thanksgiving and self-denial offering at this time seems to be a pretty good indication that times are growing easy in this city.

GOLDMARK IN CHARGE.

The New Director of the Department of Music.

It is formally announced that Mr. Rubin Goldmark has been appointed director of the department of music, Colorado College.

Mr. Goldmark's musical taste and ability are already well known to the best musicians of eastern Colorado. During the past year he has been foremost in musical activities at Colorado Springs, and at the present time is winning an enviable reputation by his course of lecture recitals upon Wagner, which are in progress in Colorado Springs and in Denver, and which are attracting the attention of the best musicians throughout the State. But his reputation is not merely local; he has already won for himself a place in the ablest musical circles of the country. One of his orchestral compositions was performed during the last summer by the famous Seidl orchestra of New York.

Mr. Goldmark was a pupil of the Vienna conservatory under Prof. Door, in piano, and Conductor Fuchs of the Royal Opera House in composition. At a later time he studied under Joseffy in piano, and Dvorak, the Bohemian composer, in composition. Before coming in search of health to Colorado, he was professor of piano, theory and chorus in the National Conservatory of Music, New York City. For the last six months he has been instructor of harmony, counterpoint and composition in the Colorado College department of music, of which he now takes the head. His acceptance of this position will insure the rapid development of the department along the best musical lines.

It is also announced that another musical instructorship has been added to the six already existing. Mr. George Szag has accepted the position of instructor in the violin. Mr. Szag is well known in New York City, from which he came to Colorado nearly a year ago. He is a graduate of the Royal Conservatory at Dresden, having studied under the eminent Prof. Raffaldy. After a few years of playing in orchestras and as a soloist in Dresden, Leipsic, Konigsberg and Berlin, he studied for another year under the famous French violinist, Emile Sauret, at the Berlin conservatory. After coming to this country in 1885, he played for two years in Thomas's orchestra, and then opened a school of music in Brooklyn, in which work he was engaged until he came to Colorado.

The department of music in Colorado College was organized only a year ago, to meet constant calls of music in connection with the course of the college and the academy. It was manned by a faculty of five, E. S. Parsons professor of English, Colorado Springs; acting director A. C. Pearson and Miss Oma Fields piano; Miss Fanny Aiken Tucker, voice; Mrs. E. F. Wells, organ. Since then there have been added, Mr. Goldmark, harmony, counterpoint and composition; Miss Huse, vocal sight reading, and Mr. Szag, violin. A series of concerts and musical lectures were given last winter with great success. Mr. Goldmark's lectures now in progress are in connection with the department, co-operating with the Colorado Springs Musical club.

The number of pupils paying tuition in the various branches of the department has increased from nine last year to 25 this year. Besides these a large number have availed themselves of the privilege of the classes in vocal sight reading and chorus.

Slaton's Jubilee Singers.

There is no doubt but what our citizens are having a season of music. It is in the air; you hear it everywhere; but the crowning event is to come yet. Slayton's Jubilee Singers will appear at the Coliseum for one night only, Monday, Dec. 9. The Chicago Inter-Ocean says that they have been singing in the Auditorium to packed houses. All lovers of music will appreciate this opportunity of hearing these singers of national reputation. The time has come when people like to spread out their investments in amusements. For this reason the management have concluded to put the price within the reach of all, which will be about one-half the charges made in large cities.

Fully Exonerated.

Prof. George Kellar, who was brought back here from Florence on a charge of raising county warrants, was bound over by Justice Saxton to the District court on two counts. He gave the bond and went back there and The Reliner has the following pleasant notice:

"The Reliner is exceedingly gratified to state to-day that Prof. George Kellar has returned from Colorado Springs without a tabu upon his character. After repeated efforts to get his prosecutors to trial where he could present his case, he finally got that opportunity on Tuesday morning, and in a very few minutes the whole matter was cleared up. The school board, the teachers and pupils and patrons of the schools welcome Mr. Kellar back."

G. A. R. Resolutions.

At a regular meeting of Colorado Springs Post No. 22, Grand Army of the Republic held last evening, on motion of L. E. Sherman, seconded by J. W. Chapman, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Our friend and fellow-citizen, Winfield Scott Stratton, has presented the Post with a G. A. R. Memorial volume with a page for the personal history of every comrade.

Now, Therefore, be it resolved, that we as a Post, and as individuals, tender to the donor our grateful acknowledgement for his noble act of patriotic generosity.

That this volume shall be treasured as the most valued of all our possessions, and when completed with the record of our last surviving comrade, shall be a perpetual reminder of the patriotic citizen as well as the patriotic soldier.

That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the donor and published by the press of the city, and spread upon the records of the Post.

Adverse Suits Filed.

The following adverse suits were filed in the office of the clerk of the District Court yesterday:

E. H. Heller et al. vs. Irving Howbert; the Nellie V. adversing the Cotton Tail.

Wm. S. Littlejohn et al. vs. William Lennox; the Boy Kid adversing the Policy.

Jasper Ireland et al. vs. Robert D. Kearney et al.; the Ireland placer adversing the Lucky Bill.

John L. Kester et al. vs. the Wheel of Fortune Gold Mining company; the Park lode adversing the Gold Charm.

Marriage Licenses Issued.

County Clerk Howbert issued three licenses in the way mail yesterday at 5 o'clock.

Josiah M. Ward was given a license to marry Margarette McElroy. Both give their residence as Denver, but the lady was divorced in Pittsburg, Pa., so late as November last. He is 40 and she is 21.

Albert Cless of Colorado City, who is 43, was given a license to marry Bertha von Oberkamp of Colorado City, whose age is 50. The bridegroom was divorced down in Oklahoma last May for cruelty.

Carl L. Slater of this city, aged 23, and Miss Ida M. Churchill of Barry, Ills., aged 25, were granted a license.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The last number of the Normal School Crucible, published at Greeley, contains a picture of the High School, with a description of the building.

Mr. Frank Richardson, who graduated from here in '87, has entered Baker University, Kansas.

The second class had a meeting on Monday, about the course of entertainments that it is to give.

The football teams have been practising regularly this week for the game between the Manitous and our second team. There will be no admission charged. The game will be next Saturday.

Mr. Clark came back Monday from a trip to Denver, Boulder and Golden. He missed his train, and so could not meet his classes in the morning.

Nothing more has been heard from the petition asking for a bulletin board. The one asking Mr. Clark to wear a major's uniform seems to have dropped out of sight altogether.

The Cadet company has been asked to attend the Christian Church in a body Sunday evening. The Glee club has also been asked to sing. At the Thanksgiving service there were about 60 present.

The first class had a very pleasant party at Mr. John Kirby's, Friday evening.

Now that the football season is almost over, it is expected that there will be more time for other things.

There is only a half hour allowed after school on Mondays now in which the pupils may stay.

The second class had a party at Miss Dora Foster's, last Friday evening.

The reference library of the High School has almost been doubled in the past few weeks. Among many others the following books have been received: Full sets of Shakespeare, Milton, Bryant, Burns, Scott, Goldsmith, Byron, Wordsworth, Meredith, Browning, Tennyson, Longfellow, Holmes, Dante, and one or two others. There are also cyclopedias of every kind and description, histories of Rome and Greece, histories of most modern countries, and especially some books on Constitutional history of the United States. This makes a fine reference library.

Joe Rogers and Bert Linn were visitors at the school yesterday.

Mr. Turnbull's office now has a gas burner. The heat did not get anywhere near the room before.

Miss Florence Dow has returned from the East, after a visit of about nine months.

The third class had a very enjoyable party at Miss Mabel Matthews's, Friday evening. Coming back on the car some class yells were made up and tried. The new yells are likely to prove a success. They are about the noisiest yet devised.

"A Tornado."

The very realistic play, "A Tornado," will be presented at the opera house next Monday evening. They carry a large amount of special scenery for the production. The scene of this new play is laid in a Wisconsin village, on the Fourth of July. An approaching storm soon becomes manifest, it turns out to be a veritable tornado, houses are torn asunder and blown away, great trees are taken up roots and all, and wafted into space, lightning flashes and thunder peals. The scene is one of awful intensity and truthfulness. Then follows the deck of a great ocean steamer, the grand rigging scene with six sailors on the yardarm of a mast, furling sail; a collision of two steamships, a scene showing the open sea tossing a lone man about on the waves which run as high as the stage will permit. Chicago harbor at night, a dissecting room in a medical college, and a beautiful autumnal scene in the Wisconsin woods. "The Tornado" was unanimously pronounced the most elaborately staged melodrama ever seen in Chicago by the entire press of that city.

We regulate our prices by intrinsic values and by nothing else. A slight advance over the cost of production is all you are called upon to pay. In many cases the material alone comes very near being worth what we ask for the finished article; those are, of course, the cases in which the workmanship is not exceedingly elaborate. We can't guarantee that you won't be a little puzzled when you come to make a selection from our handsome assortment of sterling silver novelties, but we can give you every other kind of a guarantee, and the principal one is that you'll get at least your money's worth every time.

First Call.

Colorado Springs, Dec. 5.—A much better showing was made by the brokers this morning. The total sales amounted to about 30,000 shares, but it was not so much in the matter of quantity that the improvement was noticeable as in the better prices obtained. Far and away the most prominent seller of the call was Golden Fleece, which was only listed yesterday afternoon but which sold to the extent of 12,000 shares this morning at $1.24 and $1.25. It opened at the lower figure at which [illegible] shares were quickly absorbed and then a couple of thousand changed hands at $1.25 and the same price was bid for more. Consolidated reacted and was not so [illegible] at this call as it was going down yesterday. The sales in it amounted to 12,000 shares and it went at prices ranging from 21 to 22. Another stock which regained in price was Mt. Rosa, which was credited with an even 2,000 shares, all of which brought 20. Oriole and Marion Gold were both called for the first time. The first named had 500 sales at 5 and the other stood at 17 bid without any transactions being recorded. Work was hardly so strong but Union showed a slight improvement.

Second Call.

There was hardly so much doing at the second call, but prices held up in good shape and in many instances made material advances. This was especially the case with Golden Fleece which sold as high as $1.25 in the morning. At this call nearly 10 cents better than that was bid for it and it [illegible] at $1.35. Of the two new stocks Oriole was again the only one traded in. This sold strongly at 5 and the same price was bid for more at the close of the call. The most active trader on the list was Alamo which changed hands to the extent of 7,000 shares at 9⅜ and 9½ with the bulk of the stock going at the higher figure. Bob Lee and Franklin, two other of the cheap stocks, were each credited with a total of 1,000 shares, and each of them was selling at about yesterday's quotations. Consolidated continued strong and sold at 22 and 22⅛ closing in good demand with the higher figure bid. There was a lack of buying orders for Isabella and as a consequence the price fell off a point or two. Portland was also in the dumps from the same cause, but a few buying orders in either case will soon alter the state of affairs. Union wound up the list with 29⅝ bid for it. Some of the sales made at the call were at 29⅝ and 29¾, the stock being very strong. The total sales in the listed stocks for the day amounted to 122,000 shares.

Weekly Letter Extracts.

The following items are culled from [illegible] weekly market letter. "We advise investors seeking a stock for permanent holding to buy Portland. It has been rather overshadowed in the rush for cheaper stocks, but it is a steady dividend payer, has wonderful bodies of high-grade ore as well as a great amount of practically undeveloped territory, and is a sure winner.

"Dante is a stock that should make money for its holders. It has a 20-ton shipment ready for treatment, is steadily at work, intends to put in steam machinery, and is selling cheap. Seven veins have been uncovered on this mine, but work is being done on but one.

"Princess is a prominent stock. It has $25,000 due it from the sale of property, which will be paid in dividend when collected; has 23 acres of patented, and 29 acres of unpatented ground, and three of its properties—the Mollie Bell, Gray Eagle and Little Mildred—are splendidly located. The Mollie Bell is a full patented claim, is surrounded by such well-known shippers as the Raven group, Walter, Elkton, Nugget, Jack Pot and others. Work is now being actively carried on in this property by lessees, and one has a well defined vein that he is going down upon. No immediate advance need be looked for until a strike is made, but a discovery in the Mollie will send Princess much higher than present prices. It sold to-day at 12 cents.

"[illegible] activity and a continued advance in prices will be permanent. Interest in gold mining is becoming active in all parts of the United States, and it seems to be the only profitable industry that now offers a field for investment. Added to the great interest that is being awakened is the fact that Cripple Creek has 122 mines shipping gold ore, thus basing the market upon a solid foundation."

Golden Fleece Dividend.

At the first call of the Exchange yesterday the caller announced that the books of the Golden Fleece company would be closed on the 15th of the month and be opened again on the 26th. This is for the purpose of paying out the dividend which was declared yesterday and which amounts to 2 cents per share.

The activity and rise in the price of the stock yesterday was quite remarkable. On the first day the stock was listed $1.17 was bid for it. This was only on Tuesday, but yesterday it was a ready seller at from $1.20 to $1.34, closing about 10 cents better than it opened. The declaration of the dividend (dividends have now been paid regularly for two years) may have had something to do with the big demand for the stock, but it is probably due to the general appreciation of a good thing. About 60,000 shares of the stock changed hands here and in Denver yesterday, a great many of the Denver orders being filled from here.

The capitalization of the company is [illegible] shares and of this quantity 50,000, or a controlling interest, has been pooled for three years and as outside of this it is being closely held there is practically very little on the market. The control is owned by Messrs. Geo. W. Pierce, D. K. Lee, Biddie Reeves, Samuel Reeves and Henry W. Hobson.

Current News.

The total sales in this city amounted to over 200,000 shares yesterday.

Mr. [illegible] is starting another new company. He will not give out any facts with regard to the company, but says that it will be called the Lorain Gold Mining company and that it will be an act of [illegible].

Messrs. Pennett and Myers are pushing work on their Beacon Hill tunnel to the [illegible]. Full shifts are being worked, and air drills are now in operation. The tunnel has been driven into the hill a distance of 40 feet.

The [illegible] company has received [illegible] for the [illegible], Black Boy, Blood Hound and Kimberly claims on the northeast slope of Bull Hill. Also for the Express, Bull Hill, New Haven, Oxford and Oxford fraction.

A contract has been let to drive the O. H. B. B. tunnel a distance of 125 feet farther into the east side of Bull mountain. A force of six men will be put to work at once. At the present time the [illegible].

[illegible] & D'Arcy, the mining stock brokers, have removed to room 11 Exchange National Bank building, where they have fitted up an elegant office, third floor, opposite elevator. Take elevator on Pike's Peak avenue.

The meeting of the [illegible] of the Governor McKinley Gold Mining company was held at the office of Messrs. Vannatta & Cunningham, and the following officers were [illegible] A. Q. [illegible].

"A [illegible] strike [illegible] [illegible] Kelly, [illegible] Walk [illegible] shaft [illegible] in place, and at [illegible] it is fully three feet wide and half of it is pay ore. An assay taken from this width shows [illegible] a value of $71.60 per ton. The ore is sylvanite and the vein from which it was taken is a new one. Its extension is pretty certain to be opened upon adjoining properties."

The Squaw Mtn. tunnel has reached a length of nearly 125 feet. Preparations are being made to drift north and south on the 40-foot vein recently discovered below the surface of the Bay lode claim. The Pappoose company and the Squaw Mtn. Tunnel company have about arrived at an amicable settlement. Two car loads of high grade ore from the first paying chute intersected are being shipped to the Victor Sampling works to-day. The vein shows now over three feet of solid ore averaging over $60 per ton.

No one is better pleased to see the rise in Jack Pot than Dr. W. S. Morrison, the company's diligent president. To the doctor the present splendid condition of the company is mainly due. He undertook the management of its affairs when they were in very bad shape and since that time all its claims have been patented, some fifty-three acres in all, and has seen that a large portion of the ground has been well leased. In 1892 the stock was selling at one-half cent per share, to-day it is nearly 14 cents.

INTERESTING ASPEN ITEMS.

A New Pocket of Ore Discovered in the Mollie.

The old fourth level of the Mollie Gibson comes to the front with another rich reward for the lessees of the block, says the Aspen Times. The lucky men are Gray and Mason. Saturday they opened into it and yesterday was disclosed the fact that it was a good-sized pocket for ground heretofore considered quite thoroughly prospected.

Throughout the entire pocket are [illegible] streaks ranging in value from 100 to 10,000 ounces per ton. What is considered first class ore in the body amounts to a two-foot streak and it averages 300 to 600 ounces. There is also a four-foot streak of low grade ore which it is believed will average well, ranging from 60 to 100 ounces per ton. No shipments from this pocket have yet been made, but none of the miners who have seen it doubt that it will all pay handsomely.

When Manager Cox first talked about the old fourth level of the Gibson as likely to yield some exceedingly rich pockets his words were taken at a discount by many leasers. Nevertheless the developments have verified his predictions and the success of some of the men who took blocks therein has stimulated all even on the same level to extraordinary efforts. They are therefore overlooking no means that may possibly unearth the rich deposits known to possibly be encountered at any time in that territory.

The fact that A. J. jumped in price during the last week five to eight points gave many of its holders in Aspen renewed confidence in the future value thereof. This confidence is stimulated by the rumors that are current all over town that the lower ground is honeycombed with silver deposits richer than any discovered in the Mollie Gibson during its palmy days.

Manager C. E. Palmer, who arrived here yesterday, stated that the incline was 50 feet from the contact and he knew of no rich strike in the property.

The incline is being extended continuously. It is said, but the words of the manager of the company would indicate that it was not with immediately favorable results.

One story which has been circulated here is to the effect that the lower territory has been thoroughly exploited with diamond drills and gold deposits discovered of immense value. A gentleman well informed concerning the geological features of the camp, gives it as his opinion that there is no more gold in the A. J. than has heretofore been found in its ores; hence he does not believe the statements that the yellow metal has been found in large quantity below the present workings of that property.

Another story of the success which has followed the A. J. diamond drill activity at great depth is that the cores were [illegible] filled with pure silver and that the indications were so favorable that a large territory was thus impregnated with wealth that an era of extensive development work will be inaugurated to secure it. In the event that this theory is true, many holders of stock in that company believe that while it may be some time before further dividends will be declared, and several months may elapse ere the quotations on the stock raise, yet the returns from the output will, when this rich ore is got at, reach into the millions. Under these conditions, Aspenites have faith in their A. J. holdings.

MINES, STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS.

Colo. Spgs. Board of Trade and Mining Exchange

Reported by ..... S. F. HAZLEHURST

First Call.

Colorado Springs, Dec. 4.—The market was very dull, and the trading was almost entirely confined to the more prominent stocks, while the old favorites were for the most part neglected. There was a flatness to the general tone, and while there were no noteworthy breaks in prices, still there was no animation in the dealings and but little inquiry for the better class of stocks. Anchoria-Leland had one sale of 10m at $2.15. Bankers was dull with sales at 21. Buckhorn sold at 6¾, and 10,000 Champagne brought $10.50 per 1000. Creede and Cripple Creek sold at 8. Consolidated was still lower than yesterday, opening at 21¾ it sold down to 21⅝. Colorado City and Manitou showed some activity but there was no change in its price, as it sold at 7⅞ and 8. Fanny Rawlings was weak and declined from sales at 18½ to 18¼. Franklin was lax at 2¾. Golden Age was actively bid for and closed strong with sales at 4⅝. Isabella seemed strong and kept her head in good shape, selling up to 49¾ and closing at 49½. Mutual had one sale at 8¾. Princess Eulalia was the most active stock on the list with sales of 130,000 shares which were unloaded rapidly at $9 per 1000, most of it being sold by one broker. Proposition had sales of 70,000 shares at $5.75 and $9 per 1000. Portland had 100 shares sold at $1.95. Pappoose opened with a sale at 6¼ and then rose to 6¾. Star of the West sold at 2¾, and Red Bird at 2⅜. Security brought $10.75 per 1000, and T. F. T. 3⅝. Wheel of Fortune sold at $9.50 per 1000. No bids on Sacremento. Orphan Bell sold at 14.

Second Call.

The market was again quiet but somewhat ahead of the first call in activity but without any features of especial interest to report. Argentum J. had a sale of 300 shares at 46, while Ben Hur had sales at 11 and 10¾. Buckhorn was steady at 6⅞. Bankers sold at 21½. Colorado City and Manitou was stronger with sales at 8⅛. Consolidated took an upward turn and from the first sale at 21¾ went up to 22¼ and 22⅜. No change to report in Copper Min., as it still continues at 2⅜. Des Moines sold at 7⅞ and 7½. Golden Eagle brought 3, and Golden Age 4⅝. Garfield-Grouse sold at 6¼, while Gellstone made no change, selling at 2⅜. Isabella had one sale, 1000 at 49½. Jack Pot sold at 13. Keystone started off at 10¼ and closed at 10. Ladessa was one of the lively stocks, being snapped up readily at 2¼. Maggie Reeves had a sale of 5000 at $8.50. Ontario was sold at $11 and $11.25 per 1000. Pappoose sold largely but was steady, one sale of 5000 was made at 6¼ and the balance at 6⅜. Reno opened at 7⅛ and closed strong at 7¼. Proposition had large sales at $9 per 1000. Red Bird was picked up at 2¾. Princess Eulalia kept up with big sales and went off steadily at $9.50 per 1000. Sacremento sold at 9. Silver State sold from 2½ to 2⅝ and 2⅝. Union was strong and found plenty of takers, opening at 29 it soon sold at 30, but then came down to 29¾, at which point it closed in good order. Virginia M. was steady at 3¼. The total sales for the day amounted to 1,192,581 shares.

Big Horn Gold Mining Company.

This company has been organized for three years and no stock has ever been offered on the market. The properties of this company were located among the first in the Cripple Creek district, and are six in number, viz: The Big Horn Bovine, Gilt Edge, '92 No. 1, Amulet and Bald Eagle. Two of these properties that have been somewhat developed, viz: The Big Horn and the Bovine, are on true fissure veins, and the Big Horn gave good assays on top of the vein, which has the marked width on surface of four feet, with the finest of crystallized quartz. These two properties afford the best of tunnel sites, being located at the base of two mountains, Big Horn and Contact Cone, so that great depth can be gained by pushing two tunnels already commenced in on the vein. Plenty of fine timber and an abundance of water are in the immediate neighborhood necessary adjuncts to economic mining.

The most promising of the properties, the Bovine, is situated about one-half mile from the railroad station, Gillett, on the Midland Terminal. There are several shipping properties near that are now producing ore, viz: The Ida Lee, the Lincoln, and one in Oil Creek canon. The Ida Lee has $10,000 worth of ore in sight.

The company has 500,000 shares of stock in its treasury, and no debts. Hitherto the stock has been closely held. The officers of the company are: Matthew Kennedy, president; J. E. McIntyre, vice president; P. C. Hildreth, secretary and treasurer, the directors being Messrs. Kennedy, McIntyre, Wandell, Isham and Wells.

A Pharmacist Strike.

Manager A. D. Jones left for Cripple Creek early yesterday morning to have a look at the Pharmacist mine. The immediate reason of his going was a telephone message from the superintendent stating that a new ore chute had been encountered while drifting on the recently discovered Zenobia vein. The ore was said to be from three to four feet wide, and to assay as high as $280 to the ton. It is the opinion of the superintendent that the ore encountered near this point was merely the edge of the ore chute and that the main body has now been opened up.

A Correction.

The Gazette has been asked to make a statement with regards to a case pending against the Victor sampler. Some of the papers have applied the old name of the Victor sampler to it and have thereby given the impression that the Cripple Creek Sampling and Ore company is mixed up in the case. This is not so, as the matter is between the Victor Ore Sampling company and the Kansas City Smelting company.

The directors of the Del Coronado Gold Mining company held a meeting last night and let a contract for 25 feet of work on the Rock Island lode, one of the properties of the company. When this work is completed drifts will be started at the 50-foot level. The directors are of the opinion that they will make a mine of this property very soon. Mr. William Lake, who is with the Kismet Leasing company, has charge at the mine.

The shaft on the Keystone is to be sunk an additional 100 feet.

STOCKS BOUGHT ON MARGIN

Consolidated Mining Stock Exchange.

First Call.

Colorado Springs, Dec. 4.—The Consolidated opened with a lively call this morning which resulted in the sale of over 200,000 shares. The heaviest seller of the call was Potsdam, with a total of 28,000 shares. It sold at $4.50 and $4.75 per 1000 and was in good demand at the lower figure at the close of the call. Buckhorn was a good seller at 7 and better, and changed hands to the extent of 11,000 shares. Park View was also busy at 2¼ and 2½, and was credited with 11,000 sales. American Consolidated, Bob Lee, Fannie B., Gold Reserve, Isadore, Iron Mask, Doctor, Silver State and Virginia M., each had an even 5000 sales, and all of them were selling at about the same prices that were obtained upon the previous day. Colorado City and Manitou was a lively seller, and had over 20,000 sales, closing very strong with 8 bid. Another 20,000 seller was Nonpariel, the stock going at $2.50 per 1000.

Second Call.

Though not quite so much business was transacted at the second call as was the case in the morning, the business had a nice healthy tone to it, and the value of the stocks dealt in was better than is generally the rule here. Prominent among the traders were Chimborazo and Colorado City and Manitou. The first was credited with a total of 26,000 shares all of which brought 2¼ with a point less than that bid for more at the close of the call. The Colorado City and Manitou sales amounted to an even 20,000 shares, and the stock changed hands at from 8 to 8¼, closing very strong with even better than that bid. Another very strong stock was Buckhorn which has jumped into public favor. It sold to the extent of 7000 shares all of which brought 7. Sacremento and Star of the West also had this quantity of sales: The first named was very strong and changed hands at 6¾ and Star of the West, while not so high in price was none the less strong, selling at 2¼. Anchoria-Leland made a good showing with a couple of hundred sales at $2.20 per share. Western Union was firm at 3 and Colfax at 5⅝ and 5¾. The total sales in the listed stocks for the day amounted to 444,100 shares.

Manford Smith left last night for Cripple Creek to investigate a strike of rich ore reported to have been made in the Mountain Boy claim, a property in which he and W. E. Turley of this city are interested. Mr. Smith was all smiles yesterday afternoon over the receipt of the welcome information. Concerning the matter, the Cripple Creek Times of Saturday has the following:

Dr. Henry Paul of Denver was in the camp on Saturday, accompanied by two experts, for the purpose of examining a Bull hill property. Rumors are prevalent regarding the name of the claim, but as they are not authentic, we refrain from publishing them.

At a depth of 63 feet, the pay streak in the Cardinal lease on the Blue Stocking located on the southeast slope of Battle mountain, is 18 inches wide, and drifting has been started from that point on a vein material composed of phonolite and jasper, says the Victor Record. Three assays recently obtained ran $47, $70 and $200 to the ton. The width is three feet, much of it being stained with fluorine and carrying some free gold. Mr. Cardinal and his partners have obtained an extension of the lease on the property for a period of six months, dating from May 10 next. The Portland company and Woods Investment company are the owners.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Whaite celebrated their fifteenth wedding anniversary on Tuesday evening and entertained a company of friends at their home on East Huerfano street. They were the recipients of a number of handsome presents.

A telegram from Pueblo yesterday announced the death of George Kinsey, former resident here. He was a carpenter and was killed by a fall from a building. He leaves a wife and several children. When he lived here he was a prominent member of the volunteer fire department.

Mr. Abbott Ladd after a disastrous Denver newspaper experience, has returned to this city and is now with Clarence Edsall. Mr. Ladd can say with a lot of other people just now: "Denver, Denver, why did I ever become infatuated with thy flashy charms, when your younger, handsomer and wealthier sister was standing so modestly by waiting to be chosen!"

Colorado Springs lodge, No. 62, Good Templars, will hold another public meeting to-night at their hall. A fine programme has been arranged which will be concluded with the popular quartet by C. A. White, entitled "Good Night, Gentle Folks," by the Good Templar quartet. Light refreshments will be served after the programme. Admission free.

Monte Rosa Auxiliary will hold their last meeting and tea, before the fair, at the residence of Mrs. Dr. Horn, 903 North Nevada avenue, next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock sharp. All persons having articles for the fair will please bring them ... devoted to marking our articles. A full attendance is requested in order to complete arrangements.

Hon. K. H. Babbitt, the well known attorney of this city and Cripple Creek, was married yesterday morning at Houghton, Mich., to Miss Lucy Culliford of Duluth. The ceremony occurred at Trinity church, and Rev. J. T. Curzon officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Babbitt left in the afternoon for this city. A big crowd of Mr. Babbitt's friends at the club joined yesterday in a telegram of congratulation.

Frank Ward and James Campbell are a couple of hobos who took a fancy to a bear skin that hung in front of Kirschner's place Tuesday evening. They just carried it off to Colorado City. Policeman Atkinson caught them yesterday, and they were taken before Justice Walker. He will give them a preliminary examination to-day. The rug was valued at $65.
